Tense Britain Gets Set for Bomb Raids

EXPECT EARLY NAZI ATTACKS ON BIG CITIES

PREMIER MAPS SPEECH

(By United Press)

LONDON — Great Britain, anticipating a swift and devastating German air bombing campaign, has completed a secret reorganization of its air defenses, it was understood today.

The reorganization was effected on the basis of reports from experts sent to Poland to observe the effect of German air bombing there.

It was believed that now, after the firm rejection of peace on Nazi terms by Britain and France, a German air raid campaign would come soon. Well informed sources said that Britain was not prepared for it.

Not only the British embassy, military and air staffs in Poland but a corps of trained air raid precautions observers sent full reports from Poland of the destructive power of the German air force, its most dangerous characteristics and the best means of defending big cities against it.

The government at once, it was said, reinforced its defenses on the basis of the following reports:

1—Underground shelters, securely sand bagged, provide excellent protection against all but direct hits.

2—Emergency first aid stations in streets are totally impracticable and it is essential to move all air raid casualties at once to hospitals in outlying districts.

3—The great danger is from incendiary bombs for even relatively weak anti-aircraft defense is able to keep bombing planes at such a height that accurate destructive bomb sighting is difficult. Incendiary bombs are easy to carry and are effective no matter where they land.

Dick Tracy Joins News-Journal Family Today

Not an incredible supersleuth, but a smarter-than-average police officer and detective is Dick Tracy, the latest member of The News-Journal's comic family, who joins the family circle today. Dick and his buddy, Pat Patton, will be found on Page 13 of today's paper.

Dick Tracy is one of the most popular of present day cartoon strips. The plot of the strip is carried along in a continued detective story. Right now Dick and Pat are out to write "finis" to a gang of fur thieves.

The two officers, learning of a plot of the gang to hi-jack a truck load of mink and sables on the Ganeville road, plan to stop them. Today's episode finds Dick on the Ganeville road, waiting for the hi-jackers to appear as they had planned.

Censor In Action

Squadron Leader Elsdon

Much of the news and photographic material which reaches the United States from Europe has been previously censored. Here's a British censor, Squadron Leader Elsdon, looking over some photographs in his London office. Officially he's a member of the British ministry of information.

HOPE REVIVED FOR GRADE JOB

County Renews Attempt for Agreement With State on Crossing Elimination.

The proposed $600,000 grade elimination at the B. and O. and Erie crossings west of the city, which appeared doomed three days ago, may not be lost after all.

County commissioners, it was understood, renewed their attempts today to reach an agreement with the state on financing the job and it was believed the $450,000 set aside by the state still may be available.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman, said "something may be done yet about the job" and added a decision will be reached soon.

He said efforts had been made to contact State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler.

Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division highway engineer, said he had received no word from Columbus within the past two days concerning the project, but he pointed out the state money may still be obtained if the county acts at once. He said Cincinnati was next in line for the $450,000 in state funds if Richland county fails to meet the state's request for a $50,000 contribution over a two-year period.

MERCURY AT 26

City Is Coldest Spot in State, Drops to 6 Below Freezing.

There was no doubt this morning that it frosted last night.

With the temperature at 26 degrees, lowest of the season, thin ice formed and heavy frost coated vegetation in the Mansfield area. The "freeze" killed most of the vegetation, but it came too late to cause much damage.

Mansfield's official reading of 26, six below freezing, was the lowest reported in Ohio.

The weatherman predicted cloudy and warmer weather tonight, followed by rain and colder Saturday. The average temperature in Mansfield in the past 24 hours was 41.5 degrees, 13 below normal. At noon today the reading was 56.

JUDGE LASHES PERJURY WAVE IN ASHLAND

WARNS OF PENALTY

(By Staff-Correspondent)

ASHLAND — Judge H. E. Culbertson told a special session grand jury this morning that perjury was so widespread in Ashland county that it was becoming almost impossible for a citizen to obtain justice in the courts.

"Either this court must wipe out this wave of perjury or perjury will wipe out this court," he told the grand jury which had been called to hear 11 cases.

Judge Culbertson said he was referring specifically to the case of Ray S. Reinhardt, 35, former manager of the Ashland branch of the Mansfield Provident company, who is being held under five separate counts, one of which is operating a car without the owner's consent. The others involve embezzlement and forgery.

Notary Publics Hit.

"I am referring to those notary publics who attach their signatures to documents dealing with auto titles when they know the titles are false," he said. "The forgery in the Reinhardt case could not have been perpetrated unless there had been collusion with a notary public.

"Any notary public who allows the name of a person who does not exist to be signed to a certificate of ownership," he continued, "is guilty of perjury and of violating his oath, and I intend to deal with all such cases in the severest manner provided by law."

Claim Oaths Violated.

The judge said that in some cases notaries violated their oath because they had entered into personal collusion with some other individual, while in other cases, it was pressure to do so from "the boss."

"In either case," he said, "we will find ways to deal with offenders whether it is the notary or his boss." He urged notaries who are subjected to "pressure" from their employers to report it to the court, and said that he "would personally guarantee that the notaries will not lose their jobs."

Judge Culbertson said he suspected that the evidence of per-

DIES SCREAMING IT'S 'BUM RAP'

Slayer of Detective Executed After Battle With Guards.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Battling guards and screaming to the last that he was innocent of the crime for which he was being sent to death, Steve Cygan, 36-year-old Michigan ex-convict, was executed early today in the electric chair at Cook county jail.

Although he insisted he was dying for a "bum rap," authorities declared there was no doubt Cygan was guilty of murdering a detective during a store holdup.

CONGRESS CANCELLED

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — The Vatican announced today that the International Eucharistic congress which was to have been held at Nice, France, next spring had been cancelled because of the European war.

As British Tommies Pour Into France

British Tommies disembark from their transport after a blackout crossing from England to an unidentified channel port. As the Allies prepared to repel an expected lightning attack on France, the British government announced 158,000 men and a vast quantity of equipment have been safely transported to the Western front.

Agree on W. Fourth Street Paving Plans

Council Committees Put Tentative Okay On State Proposal, Call For Estimates On Cost of Water, Sewer Line Changes.

The long-sought improvement of West Fourth street appeared a step nearer today as city officials tentatively approved the state's plan for paving the street on a 50-50 cost basis.

Meeting at the city building yesterday afternoon, council's street and finance committees agreed to "go along" on the improvement and immediately called for estimates on the cost of the reconstruction of city water and sewer on the street.

City Engineer W. C. Statler was asked to draft estimates on the cost of some water and sewer line improvements which are planned before a new pavement is laid.

The committees agreed to meet again within the next two weeks to consider the estimates so that legislation can be prepared and submitted to council as a whole at the November meeting.

Plans submitted by the state this week call for the paving of the roadway from North Main street to Ausdale avenue, with the sponsors, the city and state sharing the cost figured at $96,000.

Murray D. Shaffer, division engineer for the state highway department at Ashland said that it was planned to have the project placed on the state WPA program and that work could be started as soon as the city gives its approval to the job.

He said the $96,000 represented the city and state's share while the total cost would amount to approximately $150,000.

ACCORD NEAR?

Turkish Foreign Minister Confers With Reds Again.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Amid reports that some form of agreement would be signed by Russia and Turkey within the next day or two, the Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, was received in the Kremlin today.

In the absence of any official comment from either side, observers believed the prospective pact would settle questions in relation to the Black sea and the Dardanelles and would define the attitude of each nation toward the other in the current European war.

The impression grew in diplomatic circles here that an agreement was imminent, as the Kremlin's talks with the Turks caused indefinite postponement of further conversations with the Finns.

PURPOSE LOST?

Beer Argues Night Football Against Original Aims.

Arguing against night football, Jesse Beer, Mansfield Senior high school principal, told the Ohio High School Principals' association at Columbus today that "the purpose of physical education should be health goals for the entire school rather than simply building winning football teams."

Taking part in a debate on night football, Beer said night games place too much emphasis on a winning team.

"The pressure for night games is entirely from adults," he said, "thus the school, instead of being child-centered, passes into the category of adult life."

Wayne C. Blough, Sandusky high school principal, favored night football in his argument, asserting that 306 of the 458 Ohio high schools playing football have night games. He pointed out that more people can see the teams play at night.

Mansfield high does not play night football while Sandusky does.

REFUSES CITIES' RELIEF PLEAS

Bricker Balks at Special Session For Cleveland, Toledo.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Governor Bricker reiterated today that there will be no special session of the legislature to act on pleas of Toledo and Cleveland for special relief funds.

It was the concensus of opinion, the governor said, that the two cities could have solved their own relief problems if they had taken the proper steps. Officials of the two lake cities have expressed fears of demonstrations by needy in the near future. Toledo has had no funds for relief since Sept. 16.

TAFT TALKS FOR ROOSEVELT BILL

'Prohibit Ships From Going to Europe,' Ohio Senator Says During Debate.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) denounced today an arms embargo policy as favoring aggressors against peaceful nations and urged the senate to adopt the administration bill repealing the ban on munitions shipments.

He voiced approval of provisions which would prohibit American ships from carrying goods to warring countries, but recommended elimination of a section permitting 90-day credits on arms sales.

"We should prohibit our ships from going to Europe," he said. "That policy is no more cowardly than it is to keep people out of a burning house. It is simply good sense that we prevent American citizens not only from risking their own lives, but from plunging us into a war which may involve millions of other lives."

Taft is one of a half dozen Republican senators favoring repeal of the arms embargo. He told the senate repeatedly that he believed the United States could remain out of the European war.

"The president of the United States," Taft said, "would make a tremendous mistake if he regarded the passage of this bill as in any way a symbol of popular approval of interference in Europe.

"The popular opposition to this bill, as far as it exists, is based on suspicion of the president's

CREW RESCUED

U. S. Ship Aids British; Unable to Find French Victims.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The American liner President Harding radioed today that she had rescued the crew of 36 of the British freighter Heronspool while proceeding to aid the attacked French tanker W. Emile Miquet.

The Heronspool was sunk off the Irish coast. The Harding said it found the tanker in flames. The crew apparently had drowned.

Captain James E. Roberts sent the following message to the United States Lines in New York: "Responded to SOS from French tanker W. Emile Miquet. Sighted and rescued crew of 36 in boat from British steamer Heronspool. None missing. Reached W. Emile Miquet afire. No sign of crew.

Hitler Declares Roosevelt Can Stop 'Bloodbath'

Warns Through Nazi Aide That Germans Will Unleash Army Unless President Acts; Declares British Rejection Shatters Other Peace Chances.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Roosevelt today brushed aside new but indirect suggestions from Berlin that the United States intervene to bring peace in Europe. At the same time, the president told his press conference that he expected a reply from Moscow to this government's appeal for the maintenance of peace between Soviet Russia and Finland.

(Compiled From Latest Cables.)

BERLIN—(AP)—Germany today called the possibility of United States mediation the last hope of saving Europe from "the most gruesome bloodbath in history."

This was the view of Adolf Hitler, given by Otto Dietrich, German press chief and one of the fuehrer's closest advisers.

Dietrich declared British Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech to the house of commons yesterday had shattered all other hope of an armistice on the western front before operations there begin in earnest.

He indicated that Germany was prepared to unleash her full might against Great Britain and France unless the United States stepped in to bring the Allies and Germany together across the conference table.

Thus, indirectly, Adolf Hitler asked President Roosevelt to intervene and indicated there still might be a lull on the western front if there were any sign Mr. Roosevelt might comply.

Dietrich said he thought now that the United States alone was able to prevent war on a gigantic scale.

Otherwise, the Nazi view was that Chamberlain's rejection of Hitler's peace overtures meant Germany must fight with all her power.

'Warning to World.'

Dietrich emphasized that Germany was warning the world not from weakness but in full awareness of her strength.

He stressed the support of Soviet Russia and declared Italy was willing to fight or stay neutral as Germany's best interests might demand.

Other prominent Nazis left the clear implication that the German air force might be loosed against British ships and coastal points with as many as 800 bombers flying in waves.

Air activity at sea was expected to be the first evidence of full-scale war because of the importance to the Nazis of determining whether their combined naval and air strength could break Britain's blockade.

Rightly or wrongly, high official sources appeared convinced that Great Britain never would have embarked on war with Germany had she not relied on the United States aid.

Dietrich briefly developed how, as he saw it, Britain always has other nations to do her fighting. In this struggle, he said, it was Poland who first bore the brunt of Britain's battle, then France.

But most formidable loomed the United States, he said, and if the United States made Britain understand she must come to the green table to talk things over with Germany she would change her "insolent" tone.

"An insolent reply" was Dietrich's description of Chamberlain's

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—When and where Adolf Hitler will launch an offensive on the western front now that he has decided Great Britain's rejection of his peace offer necessitates "the most gruesome blood bath in history" occupied attention of the French high command and council of ministers today.

While hundreds of thousands of French and British troops stood steadfast all along the 120-mile Maginot line, the military situation was canvassed in exhaustive detail by the ministerial council.

A communique announced that the entire nation stood behind Premier Edouard Daladier's decision that the war must continue until the spirit of German domination is crushed.

Construction of pontoon bridges across the Rhine near Mayence (Mainz) and over the Saar east of Luxembourg indicated a direct attack in these regions. There is a "possibility" such tactics may be used, military officials said, although they insisted that French entrenchments, backed by the Maginot line, were more than sufficient to repel the onslaught.

MOSCOW: Secrecy Shrouds Finnish, Russian Negotiations

BULLETIN

HELSINKI—(AP)—President Kyosti Kallio issued a decree today ordering all Finnish civilians to hold themselves in readiness to aid the government in non-military pursuits if required by the present emergency.

BULLETIN

HELSINGFORS, Finland—(U.P.)—Germany today began the evacuation of German residents from the Finnish capital.

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW—Russo-Finnish negotiations entered their second session today amid reports that the Soviet Union had advanced a proposal that the U. S. S. R. be included with Finland and Sweden in a co-operative move to fortify the strategic Aaland islands.

The conferences got under way yesterday after the United States made representations to Moscow expressing hopes for continued peace between Finland and the Soviet Union.

Guarded silence was maintained regarding the negotiations, but it was believed that they touched upon little more than the Aaland island question.

The Aaland islands form a vital question, however, since Soviet domination of them would result in complete Russian domination

News-Journal Pioneers With 3-Cent Sunday Edition

A PIONEER—that's what the Sunday News-Journal, which will be published for the first time Oct. 29, will be.

So far as is known, nowhere else in the United States is a complete Sunday newspaper now published at the same price as a daily newspaper—three cents.

But that's what The News-Journal will cost you on Sunday. Not five cents, and not 10 cents. Just three cents, the same as the daily paper costs now.

What will there be in the Sunday News-Journal?

First of all—and most important—there will be news. Local news, state, national, world news. LATE news. The latest news off the telegraph wires will be in your Sunday morning News-Journal.

In these times, news breaks rapidly. Developments pile up, one on the other. With no Mansfield Sunday paper, there is a lapse from Saturday afternoon until Monday afternoon.

But NEWS KEEPS RIGHT ON BEING MADE—things keep right on happening.

So the new Sunday News-Journal will fill a gap in the news protection afforded Mansfield readers.

In addition to the news, there will be colored comics, eight pages of famous strips. There will be news pictures, moved from key points to The News-Journal by the fastest possible means, intensive coverage of nearby communities, of doings in the world of society, of sports events.

The new Sunday News-Journal will be a snappy, fast-moving, tersely edited, complete and modern newspaper.

YOU CAN OWN A HOME

For as Little as

$1.29 A DAY!

"JOHN, AFTER LOOKING AT NEW HOUSES TODAY, AND HEARING ALL ABOUT THE LATEST WAY TO FINANCE, I'M SURE IT'S WISER TO OWN OUR HOME THAN TO RENT"

Smart People Build Before Prices Rise!

Never before has home ownership been so practical for the family of moderate means. A home of your own is no longer extravagant (with payments of only slightly more than a dollar a day) but a sound investment in comfort, security and happiness for your family.

The down payment may be as low as 10 per cent of the property valuation or a lot of sufficient valuation. Repayment, covering taxes, insurance, interest and principle, is made in small monthly allotments—in many cases no more than present day rent.

And the beauty of it is, small, low-cost homes are built right from start to finish. Well designed and well constructed, these low cost homes embody all modern improvements. You'll like their looks, too, because architects have improved home design.

The Old Way to Finance

Here's what used to happen under the old method of financing: Say you borrowed $5,000. Chances are, you had to renew the loan every two or three years, pay high financing charges and be greatly inconvenienced. Unfortunately, you didn't reduce the principal at all, but let the debt run. In 25 years you paid nearly $6,875 in interest, and, even after that, you still owed $5,000, the cost of the home. In short, you paid $11,875 for your home under the old plan.

THE MODERN WAY TO FINANCE

Here's what happens today: Say you borrow $5,000. You reduce the principal $50 every three months. At 5% for 25 years, you'd pay only $3,472.25 in interest (maybe less). And in 25 years your debt is free and clear, and YOU OWE NOTHING. It has cost you $8,472.25, or a saving of $3,402.75 on financing charges alone.

Austria Will Break From Reich, Archduke Predicts

SEES REVOLT SWEEPING OUT HITLER'S RULE

Hapsburg Tells Knickerbocker Nazidom Will Fall Sooner Than Some Expect.

(Editor's Note: In the first interview he has given since Germany's rapid expansion thew Europe into turmoil, Archduke Otto Von Hapsburg, heir to the now non-existent crown of Austro-Hungary, today predicted the revival of Austrian independence. Otto emerged from retirement in Belgium and went to Paris to offer his services to the Allied cause. His forecast of the fate of Chancellor Hitler, who was once a Hapsburg subject, is given in the following interview with H. R. Knickerbocker, famous International News Service correspondent.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

PARIS—The true Austria is on the side of the Allies, and Austrian opposition to Hitler has grown so powerfully since the outbreak of war that it now has become certain that Austria will break away from the third reich by the time the war ends.

Nazi fear of an Austrian revolt has become so great that all Austrians have been removed from Hitler's bodyguard regiments, and all Austrian pilots have been withdrawn from the German army air corps.

Higher officials of the German Nazi party and Gestapo in Austria are shipping their collections of Austrian art objects and other valuables back to the reich.

These and other forthright statements were made to me today by Arch-Duke Otto von Hapsburg, the young man who has been distinguished of late by being the object of Hitler's especial and public hatred and abuse.

One of der fuehrer's announced objectives was, indeed, to destroy this young man's family, which ruled Austria and a good part of Europe for 700 years before Hitler was born the son of one of the most modest civil servants of the Hapsburg empire.

Franz-Josef Otto von Hapsburg, legitimate heir to the crown of Austro-Hungary, does not believe that Hitler's six-year-old third reich will last the "thousand years" which der fuehrer once boasted.

"His Majesty Otto," as his followers call him, is convinced to the contrary that sooner than outsiders think, Hitler's Gauleitern, his Gestapo agents, and all the equipment of Nazi rule in Austria will be swept away by a revolt of torrential violence.

And, Otto thinks, at the conclusion of this war the peoples of the Danube basin will unite in an economic and political confederation which will block permanently Germany's ambitions to rule central and southeastern Europe.

Archduke Otto, whom I met five years ago in Castle Ham at Steenockerzeel, near Brussels, is living in a quiet little hotel "somewhere in Paris."

Since last we met, Otto has lost a great deal by Hitler's seizure of Austria, but he has gained, too. These five years have turned the handsome boy prince, who captivated Europe by his looks and personality, into a veteran of exile diplomacy.

Today he sees Hitler more clearly as the enemy not only of his house, but of civilization.

'Prussia Evil Spirit.'

"Hitler, despite his Austrian origin, is essentially Prussian," said Otto as we sat in a modest hotel bed-sitting room, which in plainness contrasted like black and white with the magnificence of the Hapsburg's regal residences throughout the vast empire his family dominated for three quarters of a millenium.

"And Prussia is the evil spirit of Germany," he went on.

"Prussians are not Germans. They are Germanized Slavs.

"True Germans like Goethe have nothing to do with Prussianism. If Goethe were alive today, he'd be in a concentration camp.

"But Hitler wants to impose the spirit of Prussia on all Europe.

"Now the worst has happened that anyone could have imagined. The Prussians joined Russia, and Hitler has cast aside his mask and revealed himself for what he is, namely, an arch-bolshevik.

"Against this the spirit of Austria revolts. Our interests, our culture, our history compel us to be on the side of France and England.

"For a long time some people in Austria thought we were German and welcomed the idea of Anschluss, but these last 19 months of purgatory taught the Austrians what unbridgeable differences there are between Hitler's Nazi Germany and our own Austria.

"Today the vast majority of my people feel this so strongly that Hitler's forces have become afraid.

"When the war broke out Hitler tried to obtain from the former Austrian leaders and from the clergy declarations supporting his war of aggression against Poland. He failed.

"He demanded that Catholic bishops sign a proclamation urging the Austrians to fight. They refused, and the second Sunday after the war began, priests throughout Austria preached without naming Hitler, but on the subject of anti-christ, robbery and murder.

"It is impossible that sheer brute force should hold enslaved indefinitely so many peoples.

"Since the Austrian broadcast began in Paris about a month ago we have received hundreds of letters, even from Nazi officials in Austria, expressing loathing for Hitler and his regime, which have so bloodily disappointed every hope that a naive people had put in them.

"Instead of peace he gave them war; instead of protection against atheism and communism he has brought Russia's own Red Bolshevism to millions in eastern Europe and imposed his own Brown Bolshevism upon a hundred million in central Europe.

"Aside from our physical force, which we still possess, we Austrians oppose all our moral forces against this modern barbarity, which, personified by the union of Hitlerism and Stalinism, wants to destroy all religion and all christianity.

"Vienna will yet be again, as it once was against the ancient Turks, the rampart of christianity and civilization against anti-Christ.

"Hitler is indeed that — anti-Christ and the enemy of humanity."

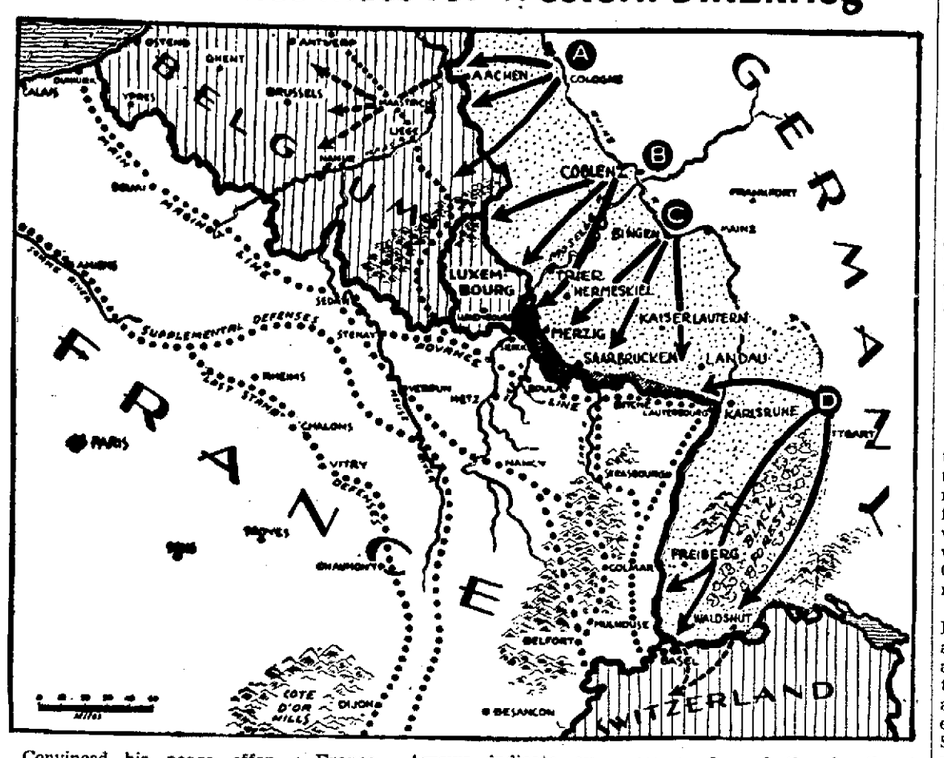
Nazi Armies Mass for Western Blitzkrieg



Convinced his peace offensive has failed, Hitler is reported to have massed 300,000 to 500,000 German troops at each of four strategic points for a lightning attack on France. Arrows indicate expected lines of attack. The first field army headquarters is at Cologne (A); the second at Coblenz (B); the third at Bingen (C), where it is believed Hitler and Goering will take command; and the fourth at Suttgart (D). Cross-hatched area is that seized by the Allies to date. Stippled portion indicates area into which Germany is pouring reinforcements from the Eastern front.

RETAINS OFFICE

Mrs. I. W. Basinger Re-elected at P. T. A. Convention.

Mrs. I. W. Basinger was renamed north central district director of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers for a two-year term today at concluding sessions of the 34th annual state P.-T. A. convention.

Avowedly opposed to the Bigelow pension proposal, the congress today turned to consideration of a resolution on U. S. neutrality.

Gov. John W. Bricker in a banquet address last night commended delegates for their approval of a special committee report criticizing Herbert S. Bigelow's pension and initiative referendum amendment proposals.

Mother singers from Hedges, Carpenter and Woodland schools were in Columbus to take part in a convention concert today, a portion of which was broadcasted.

NEW FIRM HERE INCORPORATES

Automatic Gasflux to Make Fluid For Acetylene Welding.

The Automatic Gasflux Manufacturing company had been incorporated today in Mansfield by R. P. Spreng and C. K. Spreng to manufacture a fluid used in oxygen-acetylene welding.

The new firm will be located in the buildings of the Superior Brass Manufacturing company, 90 Wayne street. The Superior company will manufacture a dispenser for the fluid.

Earl P. Gaar, attorney for the incorporators, said 250 shares of no par stock will be issued. Production of the welding fluid probably will begin within 10 days, E. K. Bacon, secretary-treasurer of the Superior company, said.

The competition will be held in New York City where 3,000 prize winning pieces of crochet work will be judged.

Judge's Memory Good; His Luck's Bad on Friday, 13th

Friday the 13th proved to be a hoodoo for Thomas E. Mason, one of two transients arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court this morning for disorderly conduct.

Judge Kalbfleisch remembered giving Mason a "break" last January when he was charged with being a suspicious person.

Because he didn't leave the city as he promised when the judge suspended a $50 fine, the suspension was revoked today and Mason went to jail to "sit it out."

His companion, Harry R. Stockwell, pleaded guilty and was given a $50 suspended fine on the condition that he leave the city. Police said the men were begging on North Main street.

MEESE HEADS 'Y' CAMPAIGN

Appointed Chairman of Annual Enrollment Week Drive Opening Monday.

D. O. Meese, Mansfield insurance man, will head the annual Y. M. C. A. enrollment campaign which gets under way Monday and continues for one week.

Meese will serve as general chairman of the one-week drive during which time 40 workers will seek to sign 200 new members.

A goal of 300 has been set for the annual renewal campaign now under way, making a total of 500 members for the year. The goal for the combined drives last year was 350. The renewal campaign will continue through next week. Orlo L. Smith is chairman of the renewal effort.

Workers will be guests of the Hermit club at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. Monday at the "Y", at which time Meese will address the group. Committee chairman assisting Meese are Robert Stevens, prospect committee, Chester Shultz, publicity, and Jessee Beer, program. Robert Remy is chairman of the Y. M. C. A. membership committee.

1940 Chevrolet to Make Bow

The 1940 Chevrolet models will be introduced in Mansfield Saturday by the Mohican Chevrolet company, 140 Park avenue east. The special DeLuxe Sport sedan, one of the new models, is shown above. Larger, both inside and out, than last year's car, the new Chevrolet is four and one-fourth inches longer. "Car buyers are going to get a real surprise when they see the new Chevrolet," M. K. Metzler, president of the Mohican agency, said.

REPORT GUARDS GAVE WHIPPINGS

San Francisco Paper Says Four Admit Flaying Convicts.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The Chronicle, in a copyrighted story today, said that four San Quentin prison guards had admitted participating in a mass whipping with lead-tipped leather straps of 41 young prisoners who had refused to take "torture" punishment for their part in a hunger strike.

Three members of the state prison board have been asked to resign, the paper said, but declared last night they would not quit on grounds that an investigation had failed to produce proof of the alleged beatings.

INJURIES KILL MAN, 80

A. B. Mabee, former manager of the Mansfield district sales tax division of the Ohio tax commission, was one of the five trustees named by the Ohio Civil Service Employes association which concluded its first annual meeting at Columbus today with the election of Harold S. Johnson of Columbus at president.

Mabee who had been in charge of the Mansfield office for several years was transferred to the legal department in Columbus two months ago when the state redistricted its sales tax offices and closed the office here.

BOY 'HIT-SKIP' VICTIM

HOLLAND, O.—(U.P.) — Charles Sidenar, 13, was killed by a hit-and-run motorist last night while walking along the Chicago pike with his father, Melvin Sidenar. The boy was carried 100 yards by the car and was dead when his father picked him up.

JUDGE LASHES PERJURY WAVE

jury was not confined to Ashland county and urged jurors to subpoena witnesses from other counties when cases required it.

He cited as an instance affidavits that were filed some time ago against Robert S. Greenlan, civil service employe of the state highway department, who was suspended after he had testified in the case of Ivan R. Ault, at Mt. Vernon in which Ault was tried for political activities in behalf of Martin L. Davey while Ault held a civil service job.

These affidavits against Greenlan were signed, the court said, by a highway employe and justice of the peace of Brunswick, and he asked the grand jury to subpoena witnesses for an investigation of these affidavits, intimating they may have been involved in the "perjury wave."

Greenlan, who appealed his dismissal and was re-instated, is under a 30-day suspension at present for "disciplinary measures," according to Murray Shaffer, district engineer.

WELCOME HOME, Tygers!

Saturday's game with those tough 'n' rough Sanduskians will mark the first home appearance of the Tygers since Sept. 16, the opening day of the season.

* * *

Since the middle of September, Coach Paul Snyder and his gridmen have traveled far 'n' wide, and to say that they ran into some pretty good opposition is putting it mildly.

* * *

They visited Massillon, Cambridge and New Philadelphia, and the only city in which they really enjoyed themselves was at Cambridge. You really couldn't expect them to have pleasant thoughts of the Massillon and New Philly visits, although we're told that the Quakers were not 20 points better than the Tygers. Neither was Massillon 76 for that matter.

* * *

In view of what has transpired on the road, the Tygers, undoubtedly, will be glad to feel the familiar turf at Stadium field when they lineup against Sandusky in what might be labeled as a "homecoming game."

* * *

A week from Saturday, Snyder, his assistants and footballers, not to mention the army of trainers and managers, will have an offday. Then comes Akron Kenmore, Ashland, Canton McKinley and Shelby, in that order.

* * *

At this stage last fall, the Tygers owned three victories against one defeat. Then they won only one game thereafter. This year's edition should finish stronger.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Madison and Lexington fought to 6-6 tie in county grid league, Earl Reichert scoring for the Rams on a pass . . . Butler walloped Lucas, 47-0 . . . and Ashland college, led by McCuen, whipped Slippery Rock, 36-7.

Matter of Lighting Stadium Crops Up.

THE question of lighting Stadium field for night football has again cropped up, and the objections that knocked the erection of bulbs into the head a couple of years ago are disappearing. It is almost necessary for the Tygers to go into night football as schedule difficulties have already presented themselves.

* * *

Outside of the Cleveland and Akron schools and Canton McKinley, Mansfield is the only major school in the state not playing after dark. And Canton, Akron and Cleveland play under the arcs whenever requested.

* * *

The formation of a Downtown Coachers' Club appears certain, and preliminary plans for the organization will be discussed at an open meeting at the Evergreen restaurant at noon Monday. You're welcome.

* * *

The club will not confine its activities to football alone. The idea is to give basketball and track a boost, too.

* * *

Can't think of a thing which could help revive the Mansfield high spirit than an active organization of this type.

* * *

The old Boosters' Club is also being revived, and the first meeting is set for the high school at 8 p. m. today. Walter Spencer is heading the movement.

* * *

The losers in today's football games will have a pretty fair alibi—it's "Friday the 13th."

* * *

Fritz Howell, AP sports writer, tells us: That only three of Ohio's colleges—Bowling Green, Oberlin and Ohio State—have unsullied goal lines, with the season only one-third gone. And only three teams—Wooster, Kenyon and Otterbein—have been held scoreless.

* * *

Northwestern, which meets Ohio State Saturday in the Big Ten hdlifter, is the only team which has played a tie game with the Bucks in Francis Schmidt's five years at the Buckeye helm. They battled to a scoreless deadlock a year ago.

In the 41 games the Bucks have played under Schmidt, the opposition has been held scoreless 20 times, while Ohio State has failed to click on only five occasions. The Bucks failed to score against Pittsburgh in 1936 Indiana in 1937 and Purdue, Michigan and Northwestern a year ago.

* * *

That unbeaten-untied Kent State university team offers something new in huddles this year. Coach "Rosy" Starn introducing it to eliminate squabbles. The boys go into three distinct groups, with the signal caller and center in one bunch, the linement in another, and the backs in the third. The quarterback gives the signal to the center, who then relays it to the linemen. The quarterback repeats it to the other three hallotters. "When you do it that way," Starn said, "the quarterback is the absolute boss, and no one can argue with him about his choice of plays." He's hoping it works against that tough, but unlucky Mt. Union team tonight.

Rams' Lineup Riddled With Injuries for Tonight's Tilt With Upper Sandusky.

SANDUSKY grid machines will be very much in evidence on Mansfield battle fields this week.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Madison high's Rams will be hosts to Upper Sandusky, and Mansfield's Tygers engage Sandusky Saturday at Stadium field.

* * *

Of course, Sandusky and Upper Sandusky are miles apart, but both play pretty smart football, according to the records.

* * *

Upper Sandusky, for instance, held the touted Tiffin Calvert eleven to a 7 to 7 tie, and this was considered quite an achievement as Calvert is the Tiffin city champion. It has already defeated Columbian and Junior Order home.

Tonight's game stacks up as another tough assignment for the Rams, who will be forced to go into the battle with a lineup riddled by injuries. Bill and Bob Heichel, Barber, Nazelinek and Folmer will not appear in the starting lineup, Coach Al Fendrick announced this week.

The Rams will be seeking only their second victory of the season. In their first four games, they lost to Wooster, Crestline and Orrville, all Class A foes, and defeated New London.

* * *

If the Rams can take this game, and there is no assurance that they will, they will stand a good chance of winning better than half of their tilts.

* * *

Upper Sandusky will throw a team said to be considerably heavier than Madison in tonight's fracas, and weight may be an important factor in determining the outcome.

Lead Seniors To 49 to 0 win

Miner and Baki Star in Annual St. Peter's Grid Tilt.

Led by Miner and Baki, who accounted for five of the seven touchdowns, the St. Peter's high school senior football team defeated the junior eleven, 46 to 0, in their annual game yesterday.

The seniors tallied two touchdowns in the first period and one in the second to hold a 19 to 0 at the half.

Miner tallied three touchdowns. Baki added two and an extra point and Cusic and Dillon scored the other two.

Wildcats Bow To Medina

Taylor Leads Touchdown Parade in Dedication Game.

MEDINA—New London's Wildcats were unable to mar the dedication of the new Medina stadium under the lights here last night.

Before a crowd of 2,500, the Wildcats bowed to the Medina powerhouse, 25 to 0, in the annual meeting between the two teams.

Virtually all of the play was in New London territory as Taylor led the touchdown parade with three. He plunged across from the three for the initial score on the first play in the second period.

Taylor intercepted a pass and raced 60 yards for the second score in the next quarter, and he took a pass from Rau for the third touchdown. Smith intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown for the other fourth period score. Rau added the point after the second score. First downs favored Medina, 11 to 4.

BILLY DIRECT REINED TO TWO NEW RECORDS

In a special Columbus day meeting Billy Direct went a mile in two minutes flat, then teamed with the Widower owned by W. F. Hetherington, Rhinebeck, N. Y. to shatter the team mark for the mile in 2:04¼.

De Correvont to Start Against Ohio In Important Big Ten Tilt

Northwestern Coach Plans to Use Two Other Sophs In Columbus Game Saturday.

The wily keeper of the Wildcats hinted strongly today he would toss his veterans overboard and experiment with three sophomores in the starting backfield against Ohio State tomorrow afternoon.

This advice was brought to the Buckeye lair today by Wally Paulison, congenial publicist for Northwestern athletics.

Waldorf and his squad were due to arrive in Columbus at 3 p. m. today and proceed immediately to Ohio stadium to get the "feel" of the turf upon which they open the Big Ten campaign against Francis Schmidt's Bucks.

* * *

The three backs will be the only newcomers in the Northwestern starting lineup, Paulison said. He added that Waldorf may change his mind at the last minute and switch back to Ollie (Red) Hahnenstein at left halfback and Iggy Mesec at right halfback. Both are competent veterans. Clawson appears a fixture at fullback, having won the job from Jack McGurn, last year's regular.

* * *

The contest tomorrow, which may be a decisive one in determining the conference championship, may easily develop into an individual open field running duel between De Correvont and Jim Strausbaugh, Ohio's fleet left half.

The two teams are regarded as evenly matched in the line and in passing attacks. Ohio State partisans have a few doubts about the Buckeye punting ability in the event of a close game where kicking "breaks" would be important.

Schmidt probably will have two sophomores on the field at the kickoff. Jim Daniell is a regular at left tackle while Jim Piccinini, 240-pound Clevelander, will have to fill in for Charley Maag, Sandusky veterans, whose injured leg will not permit him much service tomorrow at right tackle.

Maag may grace the starting lineup in the event Ohio State kicks off. Charley would boot the ball and then retire to the bench. He said that his injured left leg pains him when twisted.

* * *

Henry Taylor, university ticket manager, doesn't expect the crowd to go over 60,000 for the important conference game although perfect weather tomorrow morning may boost the estimate. The 125-piece Northwestern band will be an extra attraction.

* * *

INFANTILE PARALYSIS STRIKES LOYOLA TEAM

LOS ANGELES — (NS) — The football team of Loyola university of Los Angeles has been struck by dread infantile paralysis, it was revealed today, and two first-stringers have been sent to the hospital while a third has been isolated.

Burch Donahue and Bob Link are the two undergoing hospitalization, while Jim Sullivan is under observation after school authorities declared he was suffering from a bad cold. "There is no cause for general alarm," according to Charles A. McQuillan, S.J., president of the university.

HERE'S HOW TO OBTAIN REFUND FROM REDLEGS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Out-of-town holders of tickets for the unplayed fifth game of the World series can obtain refunds by writing to the World series ticket office, Box 1078, Cincinnati, according to an announcement today by the Reds' baseball club.

Tickets must accompany the request for refunds. The club has about $158,000 to refund.

Meet Monday to Form Downtown Coaches' Club.

An organization to be known as the Downtown Coaches' Club will be organized at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Evergreen restaurant at 12 noon Monday, it was announced today.

The purpose of the organization is to promote interest in all sports at Mansfield high school, it was revealed, and any person in the city will be permitted to join after organization plans are completed.

Representatives of various Mansfield factories will meet with instigators of the club to formulate plans Monday.

Bookman, Chevrolets Hold Pin Spotlight

Roll Totals of 642, 2695 In Commercial B League; Mansfield Rugs Hold Two-Game Lead.

REGGIE BOOKMAN and the Mohican Chevrolets held the scoring spotlight in the Commerical B league at the Meder alleys last night with respective counts of 642 and 2695.

Rolling scores of 235, 198 and 209, Bookman led the Chevrolets to a clean sweep over the Yuncker Sports. The Chevrolets climaxed their string with a 932 game.

Second high in the scoring list last night was the Ringside Cafe, which compiled a 2664 total and three victories over the Heilman Grocers. Horvath of the Cafe missed 600 by seven pins.

* * *

Gene Funston blasted out a 618 and Ed Henrich contributed a 592 as the Satterlee Restaurant club hit 2634, which was good for three wins over the Kochheiser Sports.

* * *

The Mansfield Printers remained within two games of the pace-setting Mansfield Rugs by hanging up a 2609 total and three victories over the Possum Run Golfers. The Rugs swept their match with Southern Hotel and Ohio Public Service won three from the Shelby Cycles.

Bantams Face Akron Eleven, Pros Travel

Coach Hank Richards and his gridsters will give Mansfield football-goers their first glimpse of his new bantamweight edition at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Adams Bantams will face the South Akron Merchants in the home team's first game of the season.

Games have been dropped to the Cleveland Skippies and Canton Merchants already this season, but the Mansfield team has shown considerable improvement.

* * *

Richards regards victory chances for Sunday's game as promising.

* * *

The midget team will be permitted to use Blue Goose field Sunday as the Automotive Supplies will go to Cleveland to engage the Euclid Spartans, who stack up as the strongest club faced by the Mansfield semi-pro eleven this season.

Coach Frank McMullen's team will be seeking its fourth straight victory in this game.

The team will make the trip by bus, and fans wishing to accompany the club are requested to contact Business Manager Fred Rizzo or any of the players.

Duke Betting Favorite to Beat Pitt.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils rode into town today to find themselves a 6-5 betting favorite to whip Pitt but indications were that game time tomorrow might find the rivals at even money. A squad of 35 brought here by Coach Wallace Wade was reported in top form while injuries threatened to keep two Pitt first stringers on the sidelines.

Streaks Can Be Beaten—Snyder

"Stop Balconi" Is Cry as Mansfield Gridders Complete Drills for Saturday's Invasion.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

IN A RATHER nasty mood because of the 20 to 0 tanning administered by New Philadelphia last week, the Tygers put the finishing touches to a heavy week of labor on the practice gridiron today for the renewal of their deadly rivalry with Sandusky at Stadium field at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Figuring that the bengal bunch is due to upset the dope one of these Saturday afternoons, Mansfield football-goers, along with about 2,000 Sanduskians, are expected to tax the capacity of the Tyger lair.

On the season records, Sandusky is heavily favored, but the Tygers were the Blue Streaks' upset victims two years ago, and Coach Paul Snyder is attempting to convince his charges that turn-about is fair play.

While admitting that Sandusky is no weakling, Snyder has been convinced that the Blue Streaks can be beaten.

* * *

Toledo Waite proved that Coach Bob Whittaker's men are not unbeatable when they took the Blue Streaks into camp by a 27 to 6 score with a running attack that literally pounded the Sandusky line to shreds.

* * *

Mansfield may lack the power of the Waite offensive, but Snyder has a pretty good ball carrier in Howard Hershey, who might cause some trouble if his teammates can pave the way.

Henke

The shift of Martin Henke to the backfield will add little speed, but his presence in the ball toting department will give Snyder another hard-hitting back. He's also shifty.

Henke can also throw, Snyder has learned, and he will probably get a chance to unwind his whip Saturday as running plays alone are not expected to provide enough punch to baffle the Blue Streaks.

Dave Templeton, moved up to a wingback post to permit room for Henke, and either Bill Doolittle, a hard-smacking sophomore, or Bob Lantz will complete the backfield.

Sandusky, which has beaten Collinwood, Elyria and Canton McKinley, has a definite menace to throw against the Tygers in Geno Balconi, short-legged left halfback.

Balconi has scored nine touchdowns this season against some pretty fair competition to rank among the state's scoring leaders.

Another Sandusky threat will be Bob Fleming, a colored boy, who caused the Tygers a lot of grief last year. A. L. Gant is the plunging fullback, and will demand respect. Bill Thomas does the quarterbacking.

While Sandusky may win (but the Tygers to a man don't think so) the game is not expected to be a repetition of the slaughter that the Blue Streaks fashioned last year.

* * *

The Streaks kicked the Tygers into a corner on the first play of the game last fall in Sandusky, and Mansfield never got out of the hole.

* * *

Thoughts of the 1938 whipping may inspire the Tygers to sensational heights, and there may be around 8,000 fans and fanettes out at Stadium field Saturday to see them attempt to upset the dope.

Sandusky knocked the Tygers out of a share of the Ohio title with Massillon with a surprise 6-0 victory in 1937.

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

BRIEF BUYING IN WAR STOCKS LIFTS LEADERS

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A brief war-buying burst lifted selected stocks fractions to 2 points in today's early market dealings, then price gains were halved or cancelled in many cases by profit taking.

Best movers were Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Youngstown Sheet, DuPont, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Southern Railway, Western Union, Johns-Manville and International Harvester.

Inclined to hang back were Chrysler, General Motors, Texas Corp., Phelps Dodge, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone and International Nickel.

The initial flurry was attributed principally to yesterday's speech of British Prime Minister Chamberlain rejecting Hitler's "last offer" for peace and the subsequent threat of the fuehrer that a "total war" was about to be launched.

Business news, generally, was still cheering, but there were a few flaws to be seen in the picture. With some 50,000 Chrysler workers idle as the result of this company's labor dispute, the motors were indifferent throughout.

Noted was the Dun & Bradstreet survey indicating retail spending throughout the country this week made a strong showing despite unseasonable weather in many districts.

At the same time the review found that consumer alertness to prices was becoming more pronounced.

Purchasing at retail for the national as a whole was placed at 8 to 13 per cent above the comparable period last year, with the northwest showing increases of 6 to 14 per cent after lagging in previous weeks.

BRITAIN GETS SET FOR RAIDS

4—The Germans almost never raided in Poland after dark, but concentrated on dawn attacks.

5—A huge supply of water is most important. Food must be stored in vast quantities and must be easily moved.

Chamberlain, backed by a united country in his determination to fight rather than accept Hitler's peace terms, plans to broadcast to Canada and the United States tomorrow a speech supplementing his house of commons statement yesterday it was understood.

Unmoved by angry German threats of ruthless war, Chamberlain planned to make the basis of his speech the favorable world reaction to his commons statement that it is for Germany to make her choice between offering terms for a real peace, supported by something more than Adolf Hitler's speech, or war.

It was believed that the speech would be broadcast throughout the British empire, and would be the first of a series of such speeches by key cabinet men.

Newspaper comment today showed complete support of the government's position. Typical was the editorial of the Times, influential conservative organ. It said in part:

"We recognize that the world can never be the same again as we knew it before bombs began to fall on Poland. We fight with our thoughts centered on the future, having regard to the past only as our efforts for the future are conditioned by it.

"In our hopes of a 'better international system' is part of the reply to those who are impatient for an immediate, detailed definition of our war aims. The Poles must have their say in it. So must the Czechs and Slovaks and other nations and so most emphatically, must the Germans.

"In rejecting Hitler's present terms with the decision their utter falsity requires, Mr. Chamberlain was careful to leave the way open for a genuine offer. Only he was compelled to give or repeat the warning: There can no longer be any possibility of coming to terms unless the security of their fulfillment by Germany is something better than Hitler's word."

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Auto Stolen—Mrs. Joseph Clark, R. D. 2, Mansfield, told police last night that her automobile which she had parked on East First street near South Main had been stolen.

Shoot Scheduled—A shoot by the Mansfield Muzzle-Loader Rifle club is scheduled for 1 p. m. Saturday at the Triangle Gun club grounds on the Park avenue west road.

Petition Council—City council had before it today a petition from abutting property owners for the installation of street lights on an alley running between Grant and Bowman street from Chester to Harker street.

Convenes Saturday—A meeting of the Mansfield Community Memorial and Patriotic association will be held at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at the Memorial building. Russell Moore, president of the association said today.

Meets Today—Because two members of the Mansfield board of education and Supt. W. L. Miller will be out of the city Monday night, the board's meeting scheduled for that night has been moved up to 4:30 p. m. today.

Extends Hours—Offices of the water, sewer and garbage department in the city building will remain open until 4 p. m. Saturday for the payment of the current west side water and sewer bills, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the department, announced today.

Return From Trip—Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer, 81 Rowland avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Weaver, 113 Blymyer avenue, have returned from a two-weeks motor trip to Minneapolis, Minn., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kochenderfer and daughter.

Permits Issued—Two building permits with a total estimated valuation of $9,000 were issued at city hall today. They went to Charles Getz, 446 Shepard road, for the construction of a $7,500 residence at 606 Bigelow road, and to J. L. Metcalf, 298 West Third street, for the construction of a $1,500 home at the rear of 296 West Third street.

Addresses Club—C. L. Van Derau, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, will address members of the Social Workers club when that group meets at First Methodist church at 6:30 p. m. Monday. LeMoine Derr, Senior high school music instructor, and Miss Louise Krause, pianist, will provide the musical program.

Army Alive to Its Own Weaknesses, Gets Ready for Biggest War Games In History

(Special to The News-Journal)

WASHINGTON—Behind the U. S. army's announcement for the biggest war games in history today stood two important facts:

1. The army is preparing to bring its peacetime strength up to the full authorization of 280,000 troops. This will mean a force of approximately 600,000, including national guard and reserve officers.

2. The army high command is going to turn its garrison troops into streamlined, mobile divisions.

Orders for the war games, which will send 67,500 troops into southern states for several months for extensive field training and maneuvering, reveal the army is alive to one of its own weaknesses.

Perhaps also the army high command had an eye on the success of Adolf Hitler's mobile German army in its invasion of Poland.

With mobile, mechanized divisions, Hitler took most of Poland in three weeks to the surprise of Military observers. It was known the United States had military observers in Poland during the German invasion.

During the past summer, army and national guard troops, totaling 45,000 men, staged extensive maneuvers in upper New York state and Virginia. The war games were regarded as something of a failure as far as proving the preparedness of the troops was concerned.

Only one thing brought encouragement to the high command. It was the morale of the troops. Nowhere else in the world is there as fine an individual soldier as the American doughboy, they said, but as a fighting force glaring weaknesses were revealed.

Under the old army system, regular troops were given field training for one two-week period every four years. Under the new plan, great bodies of troops will be kept constantly at war games.

Not First Line Troops.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring frankly admits many of the present regular forces cannot now be considered as first-line troops when he says:

"This (old) system, together with the general lack of corps troops—heavy artillery, engineers, medical regiments, signal battalions, quartermaster truck trains—has made it virtually impossible for the mobile combat troops of the regular army to be considered as an immediately available, first-line combat team, experienced in large scale field operations."

Concentration points for the war games in the southern states during the winter will be Fort Benning, Ga.; Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; Fort Lewis, Wash.; Camp McClellan, Ala.; Camp Jackson, S. C.; Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Knox, Ky. A few troops also will be quartered at Camp Ord, Cal., and two cavalry divisions will be concentrated at El Paso, Tex.

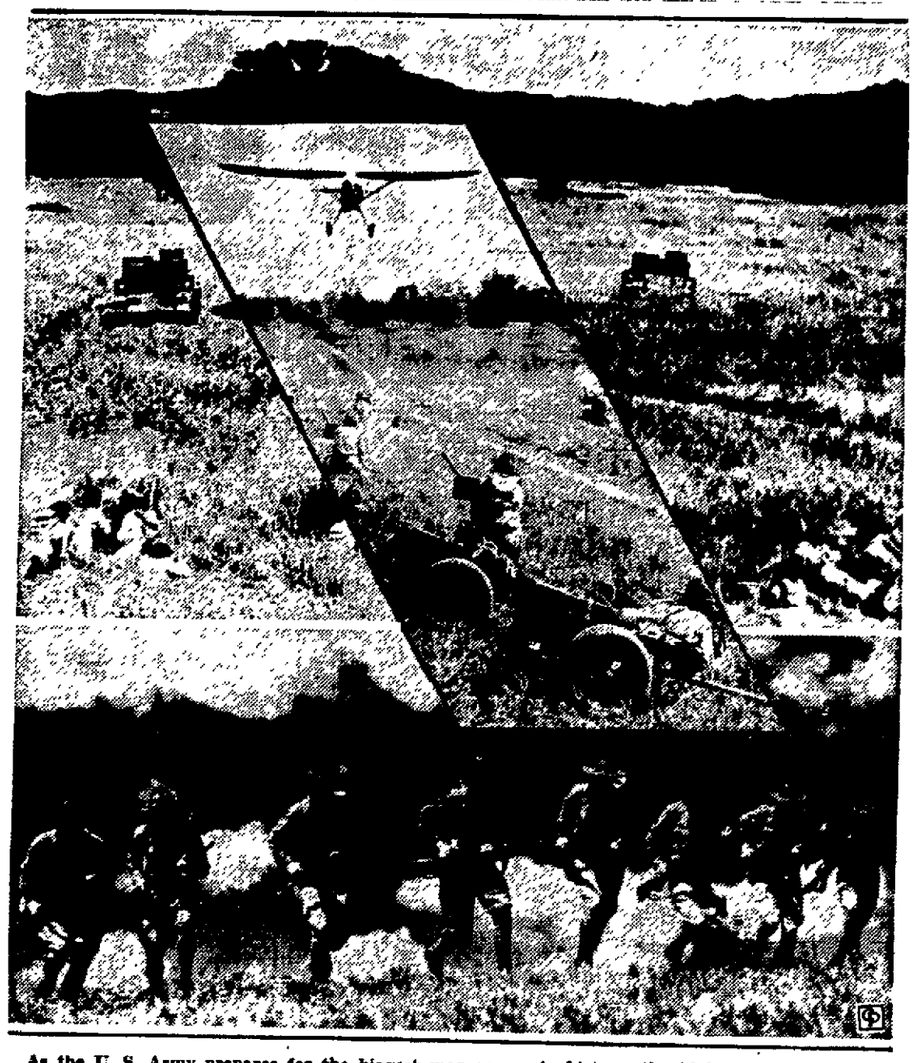
It is believed that the troops at Fort Lewis and Camp Ord will move into the south in a forced march under simulated war-time conditions to test their mobile strength.

Recruiting Under Way.

At present, under a recent order under proclamation of a limited peacetime emergency by President Roosevelt, the army is bringing its strength up to 227,000. The new soldiers will be given first training in forts vacated by troops going south for the war maneuvers.

With present army housing facilities, it would mean that there always would be a large force of troops in the field for war games.

Until now, U. S. troops had been virtually garrison soldiers putting in duty at forts and camps rather than in the field. Under the new plan, the garrison troops will be kept in the open to make them a mobile army.



As the U. S. Army prepares for the biggest war games in history, the high command hopes to correct glaring weaknesses uncovered in recent maneuvers which showed, however, the morale of the troops to be unusually high.

ARCTIC DOCTOR TO TALK HERE, TELL OF ROGERS, POST CRASH

The American doctor who received the broken bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post after they had crashed 15 miles from his Alaskan mission, and who was host to Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh when the famous flying couple winged their way from New York to the Orient, will speak in Mansfield.

Dr. Henry W. Greist, late of Point Barrow, Alaska, and now residing in Monticello, Ind., will address a meeting at First Presbyterian church at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. His appearance will be sponsored by the church sessions and the Women's guild.

The lecture and picture show will be free to the public. Dr. Greist is being brought here as an educational project in connection with the Guild's study of Alaska this month.

Dr. Greist has spent 17 years in Alaska, in charge of Presbyterian missions. He has degrees in both medicine and theology. The first year he was stationed at Cape Prince of Wales, the most westwardly point in America, and for 16 years was at Point Barrow, which is farther north than any other point of North America. Here he was director of the hospital and superintendent of the mission, with a parish extending 1,000 miles.

In addition to the Lindberghs, Dr. Greist and his wife were hosts to Knud Rasmusson, Raol Amundson and other Arctic explorers.

COMPLETE ROOM

Pittsburgh to Pay for Work on Polish Classroom.

PITTSBURGH— (U.P.) —Regardless of the outcome of the European conflict, the Polish Room at the University of Pittsburgh's skyscraper Cathedral of Learning will be completed, according to Mrs. V. L. Alski, a member of the Polish room committee.

The Polish room will be one of 19 nationality classrooms at the university.

Mrs. Alski explained that although about $2,000 is needed for the room, "the university has agreed to pay for the room, then let us pay the money back when Poland is safe."

In order not to hamper collection of money for Poland's relief, the committee has dropped solicitation of funds for the Polish room.

SMOKES, CHEWS

Southerner Uses Tobacco in All Forms 81 Years.

EUPORA, Miss.— (U.P.) —T'bacca chewin' Jim Walton, 87, has passed another milestone with a quid in his jaw, and he expects to reach 100.

"I have been using tobacco as chewing, pipe, snuff, cigaret and cigar since then. I took my first chew July 4, 1858, spit big, and being Southern, swaggered around and swore I could wipe out the 'Damyankees' all by myself. My next 13 years will be my hardest, as a tobacco user."

Walton is director of the Gen. Samuel Dale Historical society, which has members in 31 states.

SPARE TIME JOB

Dean Translates Writings of Green Historian.

LINCOLN, Neb.— (U.P.) — Since 1930, Dr. C. H. Oldfather, dean of the University of Nebraska college of arts and sciences, has spent his spare time translating the preserved writings of the ancient Greek historian, Diodorus, who lived about 70 B. C.—the H. G. Wells of his time.

Selected by the Loeb classical library of London, Dean Oldfather now has completed the third volume of the series of 12. Thus far the task has required the translation of more than 170,000 Greek words. The last translation of Diodorus was in 1610. Historians want to learn what people in Diodorus' time knew about early Britain and the Gauls.

THEFT CHARGED

ASHLAND—Held on charges of petit larceny, three Lorain county youths, William Madison, 19, John Carter, 18, and Eddie Glass, 18, all colored, await charges while in the custody of the sheriff's office here.

The trio was arrested by the Lorain county sheriff and remanded to the Ashland county sheriff after they were accused of entering a filling station in Sullivan on the pretext of buying, and then having stolen candy and cigars valued at $2.

ARRANGE SHOOT

BUCYRUS — Preparations are being made for a "Hunter's Special" trap shoot to be held on the Bucyrus Gun club grounds some time before the opening of the rabbit season, Nov. 8, Dr. K. Y. James, secretary of the club, announced today.

Special events are being planned, including novelty events for novices, Dr. James stated.

TRIES SOOTHING VOICE

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. — (U.P.) — Gentle persuasion, abetted by strategically placed loudspeakers, has supplanted the raucous "sooo-o-ey boss" familiar to the cows at Hawthorne dairy farm. The experiment was inaugurated as an extension of the theory that music during milking times increases the supply.

CRESTLINE — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Plummer of 1013 Harding way east, Galion, are the parents of a son, born Thursday at Crestline Emergency hospital.

C. OF C. BOOSTS MEMBERSHIP TO 652, NEW HIGH

VanDerau Cites 'Sensational Growth' as Workers Hold 'Victory Dinner.'

Pointing to the "sensational growth" of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce during the past five years, Clarence L. VanDerau, president, told workers celebrating the chamber's successful campaign last night that the organization's membership was the highest in history.

VanDerau spoke at a "victory dinner" at the Mansfield-Leland hotel attended by the 40 team members who conducted the fall membership drive. He said the chamber's roster now totaled 652 members.

Pointing to the organization's rise from 150 members five years ago, he asserted that the Mansfield chamber was classed among the foremost in the nation for a city of its size.

During the organization's campaign last week the 21 two-man teams enlisted 77 new members and signed up 44 renewals. At the meeting last night 11 additional memberships were reported to boost the campaign total to 132 members. A goal of 80 members had been set for the drive.

First honors in the campaign went to the team of John B. Conard and E. C. Geiger who were presented with awards for obtaining the greatest number of memberships.

They were also given awards along with the teams of E. A. McFarland and B. B. Boals who finished second and W. R. Mehl and Dean Eckert who were third. Workers who made their quotas of five new members also received awards.

"President prizes" awarded by VanDerau went to Charles Kafer, Milo W. Hieber, Mehl and Redding.

Hieber, campaign chairman, acted as toastmaster at the meeting during which Redding, honorary chairman, and Robert Remy, co-chairman of the drive, spoke.

GANGES GROUP HONORS GUESTS

Church Missionary Society Holds Program; Presents Drama.

GANGES—Mrs. Russell Myers was chairman of the guest day program held by the Women's Missionary society of the Ganges Community Reformed church yesterday when Mrs. Arthur Mellick led the worship service. Two of the guests, Mrs. Joe Miller, and Mrs. Dwight Briggs, sung a duet.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Rollo Ferrell. The group presented a dramatization, "On An Indian Road", which, depicted Madras, India. During the fellowship hour tea was served, and an Indian dessert, jalebis, was served.

RETAILERS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER MEETING OCT. 23

James Gheen, Noted Business Counsellor, to Address Session at Leland.

Dynamic, colorful James E. Gheen, New York City business counsellor, will address the annual dinner meeting of the Retail Merchants association at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Monday, Oct. 23.

Gheen, former newspaper reporter and columnist, will speak on "Telling Tales to Retailers." He is remembered by Mansfielders as the humorous and inspirational speaker who appeared here several years ago under the auspices of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers club.

The business side of the meeting will include the reports of C. M. Crafton, president of the association, and V. H. Lodde, secretary, and the election of trustees.

Attending will be members of the association, department heads, office personnel, assistants and other staff personnel of the city's commercial firms.

The annual meeting will open at 6:30 p. m. in the Leland's ballroom. Other brief addresses will be

The committee in charge of the 1939 session is headed by Joy A. Herbert as chairman and includes Harry Finefrock, C. H. Saylor, Eugene Smart, Harvey Sawhill, M. K. Metzler, M. J. Cole, Tom Siegenthaler and L. C. Hendrix.

SUPPLIES BEES

Georgia Cotton Bloom Nectar Makes White Honey.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(U.P.)—The pink and white cotton blooms furnish much nectar for Georgia's honey bees, it was disclosed here at the Georgia honey show.

C. H. Bishop, show manager, said that in many sections cotton blooms are almost the only source of nectar. Honey produced from the blooms is white.

It also was revealed that honey has a number of flavors dependent upon the section of the state in which it is produced.

Georgia's bees annually net the farmers more than $1,000,000. Much of the sum is derived from shipment of queen bees to out of state producers.

DOGS DO BITE

DANVILLE, Ill.—(U.P.)—Interviews with mail carriers in this city do not necessarily confirm the old adage that "barking dogs seldom bite" but twist it around a logical point to read "non-barking dogs bite most often."

Election Board to Receive Ballots Until Nov. 2; Sends Notices to Workers.

Absentee voters' ballots today were available at the county board of elections as the board prepared for the Nov 7 municipal and township election

Sick and absentee voters ballots may be voted by mail or at the election board office in the courthouse until 6:30 p. m., Nov. 2. Application for the ballots must be made by mail and approved before the ballots will be issued.

Mansfielders who will be more than 50 miles from Mansfield on election day may vote absentee ballots if properly registered.

Ballots for the election had been delivered to the board today by the Richland Printing company which printed them at a cost of $1,356.

Lists of all registered voters in the city were being prepared today by Mrs. Bess Winbigler who was awarded the contract for the work on her low bid of $90. The lists will be posted at voting places in each precinct not less than 12 days before election.

The election board today completed mailing of notices of appointment to judges and clerks who will preside at voting places election day The notices went to 546 persons in the city and county, who were appointed by the election board on recommendation of central committeemen of both parties.

CAR OVERTURNS

3 Youths Hurt Slightly; Two Other Accidents Reported.

Three Mansfield youths escaped with minor injuries last night when a car overturned on Ashland hill near Madison high school, while two others were uninjured in two traffic accidents

The three youth received cuts and bruises about 9:30 p m. when a front wheel on their car collapsed and threw the machine into a ditch along the Ashland road.

Injured were John Borden, 113 South Willis avenue, the driver, Paul Smith, 195 Hedges street, and Paul Dillon, 170 Glessner avenue

Martin J. Enderle, 24, of 143 Prospect street, escaped injury when his car struck a tree near the Fairground He told state highway patrolmen he swerved to avoid colliding with another car

Also unhurt was Robert W. Linton, 31, of 284 Hedges street, whose truck hit a cow on route 42 near Lexington last night.

ANSWER ALARMS

Firemen Called Twice Within 10 Minutes; No Damage Reported.

City firemen responded to two alarms within a ten-minute interval shortly after noon today. There was no damage in either fire, they reported

Companies Nos 1 and 2 were called to 42 Prescott street, to extinguish a fire of an undetermined origin in a small shed. While they were on the call, company No 1 answered an alarm at the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company, 22 Elm street, and extinguished a rubbish blaze near the building

Conducts Cossacks

Conducting the Don Cossack chorus which will be presented at Senior High school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. today by the Mansfield Civic Music association, will be Serge Jaroff, the man who organized the chorus while the exiled Russians were prisoners after the World war and the Russian revolution Most of the men in the chorus were formerly officers in the Imperial army. Jaroff, a trained bandmaster, is said to have recognized the beauty and harmony of their voices when they sang around a campfire while in a prison camp.

SHERIFF HELD FOR TRIAL

ELYRIA —(AP)— Justice of the Peace L D Hamlin yesterday referred to common pleas court for trial a paternity suit against Sheriff Carl R Finegan. The 36-year-old bachelor law enforcement officer is charged by Miss Mary Bender 23, with being the father of her daughter, Patricia Ann.

ADMITS TRYING TO SELL DRUGS

Toledo Man Bound to Grand Jury; Police Release Three Companions.

An alleged marijuana peddler, one of four colored men taken into custody by police last night, was held in the county jail today on a charge of illegal possession of narcotic drugs.

Oscar Hughes, 30, of Toledo, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to the charge and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond

Hughes was arrested with three companions at East Sixth and North Franklin avenue by Patrolmen John Gilbert and Eugene Hartnett, who said they found a quantity of marijuana cigarets in Hughes' possession. They accused him of attempting to sell the cigarets

Hughes' companions were released this morning after being jailed while police checked their records

Identification Officer E C Fuller said Hughes was paroled from Ohio State reformatory in November, 1937, after serving six years on a three to 30 year sentence for mayhem. He was sentenced to the institution in 1930 from Lucas county

SUIT APPEALED

City Contractor Takes Case to Ohio Supreme Court.

Carl H. Stander, Mansfield contractor, today had appealed to the Ohio supreme court from lower court decisions returning a $1,200 judgment against him in a damage suit.

Heard first in common pleas court several months ago, the case was decided in favor of John A. McCue, 33 West First street, who sought damages for the flooding of his property by surface water.

Stander appealed the decision and last Sept 21 the Fifth district appeals court upheld the lower court verdict for McCue Stander is represented by Atty. George H. Blecker

McCue contended in his action that the grading of Stander's property adjoining his on West First street caused the surface water to flow over his lot and into the basement of his home, damaging his property

DICK TRACY
YES CHIEF, WHEN WE CAME INTO EXISTENCE IN OCT '30 THERE WASN'T ANOTHER DETECTIVE AROUND — WE WENT AFTER THE GANGSTERS SINGLE HANDED FOR OVER TWO YEARS
YES — AND THEN, EVERYBODY WHO COULD CARRY A GUN WANTED TO JOIN US. THEY COULD SEE WE HAD UNDERTAKEN A WORTH WHILE TASK
AS TO OUR TASK — WE HAVE ONLY BEGUN! — WE NOT ONLY SOLVE EACH CRIMINAL PROBLEM AS WE COME TO IT — BUT WE EXPOSE THE CRIMINAL AND THE CRIMINALS METHODS DOWN TO THE LAST DETAIL.
SOME OF THE DETAILS ARE SHOCKING — BUT IT TAKES SHOCKING FACTS SOMETIMES TO AWAKEN PEOPLE — UNLESS OF COURSE WE WANT TO PLAY OSTRICH, AND — WELL, THAT'S A HORSE OF AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT COLOR.

DICK TRACY.. Detective is a .... comic!

It would be hard to name another comic strip that attained the quick popularity of Dick Tracy, the super sleuth of the comics. Dick Tracy starts today in The News-Journal.

Dick is a plain clothes detective working out of police headquarters. His relentless war on crime has aroused the interest of millions of newspaper readers—and the admiration of the head of the F. B. I.

In his dangerous and skillful attack on crime, Dick Tracy shows up the phoney glamour of the gangster, gets into some tight corners, solves the toughest crimes, glorifies the city police department, fills a fascinating comic strip with action, suspense, adventure.

Starting today it will run regularly in The News-Journal. Don't miss this strip that has attracted millions.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1939.

Seems odd that so many of the small countries are content to remain small.

Other snacks also have their proper place, but for this particular season doughnuts and sweet cider hold a high place.

Regardless of how pleasant a trip may be, there's always a thrill associated with the first glimpse of Mansfield when coming back home.

Modern Slavery

PERHAPS the worst evil chargeable to National Socialism and Communism in Europe is the re-establishment of slavery in a world that was thought to have been permanently freed from that evil.

If the term "slavery" is not entirely correct, at least it is serfdom. No weaker term would describe the status to which the Nazi government has reduced tens of thousands of men and women within the present limits of Germany—Jews, Czechs, Poles and even Germans themselves who have opposed the present political regime.

Stalin virtually treated various racial and economic groups like medieval serfs, especially in years when he was communizing agriculture. That was largely "ideological." Rebels or sluggards were punished to make them conform and show teamwork with the government. But some of Hitler's innovations suggest the beginnings of a policy which might be extended permanently to large minorities. He assumes full authority over the lives and tasks of political or racial groups, moving them about, separating families, shifting considerable populations, without regard to their wishes and apparently giving them only enough pay or provisions to keep them alive.

This movement may go much farther if the dictators remain in power.

Tenacious Liberty

THERE is too much loose talk about the war. People who shake their heads and say they hope we can keep out of it, but fear we'll go in, are talking loosely. So long as we are determined not to make war on anybody outside of our own borders—and all polls indicate that this attitude predominates in the United States today—nothing will push us into the conflict.

The often-heard assertion that if we are "dragged into the European war" we'll lose forever all our freedoms and emerge from the war "only another dictatorship" is another bit of loose talk. This country would concentrate all its energies and materials on the successful conduct of any war it got into, but it would not necessarily throw the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and the Emancipation Proclamation into the discard even for that job. Certainly the American people would refuse to let them go permanently.

Proof that truly democratic peoples do not easily, or for long, surrender their liberty is found in the reaction against war censorship and other controls in England as the second month of the war begins. The press there is already winning back its right to obtain and give out news. Plenty of criticism of specific governmental acts is expressed in parliament, in the press and by citizens for whom no concentration camps are prepared in that normally free land.

China Still Fights

THE CHINESE are not conquered yet, in spite of the odds against them and the advantage gained by the Japanese from the easing of Russian pressure on their northern border. There has been heavy fighting around Chungking, the Chinese temporary capital. The number of men involved is estimated at half a million. There were strong air raids and direct infantry fighting, and many thousands killed.

It was the first major offensive in twelve months. Apparently the Chinese held firm and repulsed the enemy. The invaders were reported as falling back 40 miles.

Not much news has been available from China lately, but evidently Chiang Kai Shek's government still stands and is able to give a good account of itself. This fact implies that he is getting military supplies somehow. He may yet be able, if not to drive the Japanese out of China, at least to make a tolerable peace, preserving national independence and most of the Chinese area and resources.

Classics In Disguise

A CHANGE has been coming over American popular music lately. Songs are being written and widely sung which are not only liked by the public but approved by musical scholars, at least as far as the music is concerned. On close inspection, the tunes turn out to have been written by old masters; only the words are new.

Thus a music editor points out that a couple of Tschaikowsky symphonic themes are traveling around on faked passports under the names of "Moon Love" and "Our Love," and Ravel's Pavane is being packaged as "The Lamp Is Low," and Mozart's C Major Sonata, plus a little monkey business, is trying to masquerade as "In An Eighteenth Century Drawing Room." This is not plagiarism; the origin of the music in such cases is usually confessed by the publishers.

The critic naturally asks how it comes about that millions are now accepting music written by masters of the art, where formerly the high-grade music had far more limited appreciation. The critic thinks it was because such compositions were formerly dubbed "classical," which people took to mean dull, foreign and solemn or snobbish. Now, hearing something fine out of its regular setting, and set to words they understand, they love it.

All this is, musically speaking, so much to the good. And now if more authors would write words and sentiments worthy of the music they borrow, we might have a wonderful harvest of fine songs.

A Japanese seer prophesies that the war in Europe will end before January 1. But don't cheer. Another war will break out in 1940, he says, which will last at least five years. It takes a seer these days to tell where one war leaves off and another starts.

We don't like Stalin either, but the world sort of warms up to him a little when he starts pushing Adolf around.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here are a couple of twangs from a Manhattan guitar. . . . The Hawaiians have surrounded Vincent Astor. . . . The Maisonette Russe has become the Hawaiian Maisonette, bringing to fulfillment the ravish promises made by Mr. Laurenssen, who is manager of Mr. Astor's St. Regis hotel, when he returned from a recent visit to the islands.

There are no cocoanuts and palm trees in this newest of our Manhattan Hawaiian rooms. . . . Bamboo, yes. . . . You might say that Elmer Lee and his boys sit in a bamboo thicket as they play. . . . You might say that Clara Enters almost tears down the bamboo as she goes through her characterization of the girl from Hilo, whose name was Hattie. . . .

* * *

ON THIS first preview of the show there is this to be said: Those of the press who were there, and there were probably a hundred, were pleasantly impressed. A New Hawaiian room in New York is not without its hazards. There is plenty of precedent, and New York thinks well of Ray Kinney and his organization, who, after all, started this Hawaiian business. But I think there is room here for both. They are in no sense similar. They are both excellent.

The Lee idea is a string sextet, and it is a good one. Elmer Lee himself is young, likable, terribly eager to make a good showing here. He won plenty of friends with his first appearance. . . . There was no question that Clara Enters would win—hands down. . . . I was delighted to welcome Mapuana Bishaw back to New York, who was here last year for awhile, and it was a pleasure to see her on the floor again. We think a lot of Mapuana around here.

* * *

HERE are a few notes on the others of this group of visitors from Honolulu; Leo Lani, whose name probably means Voice of Heaven. A very pretty girl, who sings as well as dances. She was by popular vote queen of the festival in Honolulu this year.

Kaanohi Padeken, dancer-member of the Royal Hawaiian troupe, runner-up and lady in waiting to queen of the festival.

Arthur Mahoe, plays full fiddle; at home is something of a politician, if being commissioner of homes in Honolulu involves politics.

It's a nice show, and a nice crowd. And the only person in the whole outfit whose name I can't pronounce is the little hat-check girl, who isn't Hawaiian at all, but a Japanese—from Manhattan.

Aloha!

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Oct. 13, 1919.

Employes of the Mansfield Telephone company received a 15 per cent increase in salaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shurance left for California to make their future home.

Major W. Scott Pealer, former Mansfield man, was named executive clerk to Governor James M. Cox.

Mrs. Sidney Palmer and Miss Helen Rhodes were delegates from the Mansfield Federation of Women to the state federation convention in Cleveland.

B. J. Gosnel moved his family from 568 South Main street to Park avenue west road.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Oct. 13, 1934.

Thieves dug up 12 bushels of turnips and carted away 25 pumpkins and 15 squash from farm of Clarence Chambers, Springfield township.

Thomas Williams was re-elected president of Delano lodge, Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Merle Owens, 363 South Diamond street; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wentz, 400 Wayne street.

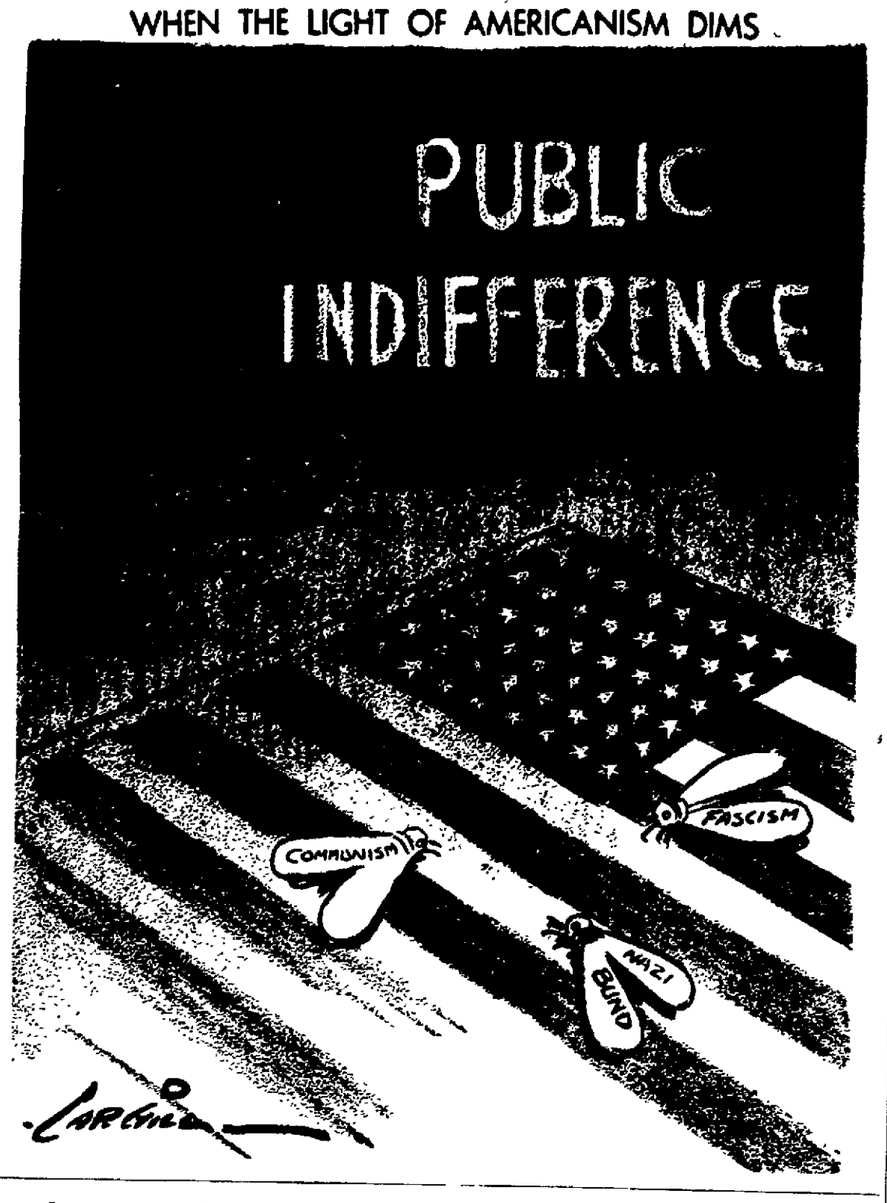
WHEN THE LIGHT OF AMERICANISM DIMS



What About Our Import Trade?

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—So much attention is being given to the alleged war possibilities of the neutrality battle in the senate, and so much oratory is centered on the export of arms, that very little attention is being given to imports. Yet imports are of the essence so far as American trade and American business are concerned.

Before the first World war the United States exported more than she imported. That was sound, then, because the United States actually owed money, and the excess of exports over imports paid the interest on that debt. (This was mostly in the form of foreign holdings of the United States stocks and bonds, but it works out the same way.)

Today the world owes the United States, even if one eliminates the debts that we suspect will never be paid. So the United States, to maintain a sound equilibrium, should import a little more than it exports, so that the foreigners can pay us the interest, at least, on the debt they owe us.

* * *

This is part of the picture. The idea of building up a United States merchant marine is another part. Many people under the pressure of more exciting events regard these two as academic. But there is a third phase. How are we going to get imports that we actually need brought to us.

By its mandatory provisions preventing American ships from carrying cargo to belligerents, the pending bill virtually hands over to foreign shipping all transport to French and British territory. This means not only exports but imports as well. For instance, vitally needed tin. For instance, that stock of rubber which the United States has already taken in trade with the British on the barter deal by which we give the British cotton.

Curiously enough, the original agreement provided that British ships should haul half the cotton and half the rubber. This was changed, later, at the request of the British, so that now the agreement provides that ALL the cotton is to be hauled in British ships, and all the rubber in United States bottoms. The reason for this was that the British were willing to risk their ships to carry cotton from United States ports to England, and this country, not anxious to risk its ships in the submarine zone, was eager to agree.

* * *

But the neutrality act would bar United States ships from trading with the British ports in the East from which the rubber is exported!

Moreover, the bill has plenty of teeth, if no change is made to recognize these practical conditions. For instance, an American ship stopping at Singapore for rubber, or Sidney for wool, would make her owners liable to a fine of $50,000, not to mention imprisonment for up to five years!

At present the plan is to have Japanese ships bring us the rubber—scarcely a popular idea once it becomes generally known.

The tragic part of it all is that in recent years, after decades of stupid bungling and terrific waste of money and effort, the United States had really been building up a good merchant marine. Moreover, many additional ships are under construction or contract. Regardless of how trade with Latin America is developed—remembering that of course all British and French possessions in that part of the world would be barred to our ships by this bill if enacted in its present form—it will not be sufficient to maintain the present, and building, United States merchant marine if our ships are to be barred from the rest of the world.

"The Valley of Vision"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEER how some off phrase, some stray bit of experience, will stick in your mind for years, be woven into the very warp and woof of your life.

I'm thinking of four words which I heard—and puzzled over—as a small girl yawning my way through a Sunday morning sermon. "The Valley of Vision." Of the rest of the sermon I haven't the slightest memory, but my wonder at that odd expression comes fresh over all the clutter of the years.

"The Valley of Vision"—But Visions didn't come in valleys, said I to myself. Maybe I was only ten—but even a ten-year-old knew about that. All the fairy tales told you. Visions didn't come in dark, pokey ole valley. Visions came on high, shiny places . . . magic mountain peaks . . . after you'd climbed all the forbidden trails and killed the dragons and found the Secret Treasure . . .

Are you smiling, too? Thinking back to the long-ago when you were a Little Tyke and lived in a Never-Never world of marvel and enchantment . . . a world where you, too, saw the glory and wonder after you'd climbed the trails and killed the dragons and found the secret treasure? Probably. And yet, there are reservations to that smile. For you still believe—and have always believed—that visions came on mountain peaks—in the shining, triumphant moments of life—not in the dark, pokey ole valleys.

Those shiny mountain peaks—we all believe in them. And most of us spend our lives watching for them . . . feeling that we'll find Our Chance up there, waiting for us, some day. Some day when we've killed the dragons and found the treasure, that's when we'll come into our victories and visions.

And all the time, chances are, our visions lie right beside us in the darkness and the sadness of some narrow valley . . . in the commonplace environment and drab drudgery we so despise!

No I'm not saying that a great life must necessarily be a hard life or a poor or a sad life. I don't think God ever intended that souls should hatch in poverty and pain exclusively. But having spent most of my own life in mighty limited scenery, I've had the chance to notice a very strange phenomenon. Namely—

The very best visions do come in the valleys!

When it comes to pomp and pleasure, pride and power, the glittering peaks have it all over the lowlands as exclusive resorts.

But if you want to catch the great and enduring glimpses of life—if you wish to see the stern face of Truth and the brave face of Peace and the gentle face of Loving Understanding, then there's only one place to find them, and that's in the shadows.

"The Valley of Vision" — it's really so. Old Isaiah knew his stuff when he named that location. The shining peaks are a great place to be, if you're simply interested in a Personal Close-up. It's the perfect spot for the Successful and Triumphant Folk to strut their stuff. But it's no place at all for seeing Visions. For those who inhabit those glamorous heights are too blinded by their own glory to see beyond its aura . . . their eyes are turned in upon themselves.

But it's down in the gullies, on the thorny trails, in the shabby huts of the poor and the unsuccessful, that you'll catch, in glimpses, the glory of God and Man unveiled. It's there you'll find mercy, amongst those who have most desperate need of it . . . and love, from those to whom it is their only possession . . . and hope, from those who were lost without it.

The Valley of Vision — you'll learn more there, in an hour, holding some scarred hand . . . looking into some broken face . . . bending over some little grave . . . than you'll learn on all the heights of splendor.

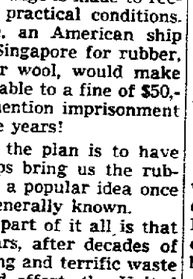
Against Little Boys

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

Appearances often to the contrary, I am a lover of neatness. I admire folks who can keep their homes and lawns spic and span from one year's end to another. I like to see a barn with places for things and tools and animals in their proper places. I envy a garage man whose wrenches and necessary gadgets are kept in neat rows, ready to hand. A carpenter's tools intrigue me.



Yet I have a hard time keeping track of even one hatchet, and a half keg of nails which I happen to own, is slowly dwindling away, without apparent cause. Our lawn rake and the best new spade turn up in the middle of the drive, where the car runs over them. The lawn mower pops up in the middle of the hen house path, at dusk, when I am hurrying to shut the henhouse door and do not see it. As a result, I get a sprained ankle and a bloody tendon of Achilles, as well as a severe jolt to my temperate Dutch disposition.

The garden plow is left at the foot of the front steps, where the preacher or our friends who come to see the new baby are sure to fall over it. (We have no porch light.) A pile of bricks intended for making a cistern is moved, a few at a time, and made into a prison for tigers. The two kittens—tigers to you, escape from their incarcerators, leaving the dungeon where whoever crosses the yard may tumble over it, full tilt.

In sheer self defense, I hid some of my most precious and necessary tools—my pencils and ink, my spectacles and flashlight, the new hatchet and file—upon the upper shelf of the corner cupboard.

This plan seemed to work, and I could find some of the things I needed when I needed them. Gradually my store of treasures grew in both numbers and variety. Then, one day, the second boy, who has inherited from somewhere the instinctive curiosity of an explorer, climbed upon the step ladder and got a bird's eye view of my treasure trove.

The two small brothers had a fine time. They wrote upon my scrap book with the ink. They cut out grandmother's picture with the scissors. They tried out the hatchet upon the woodbox and filed their mother's paring knife until one of them cut himself, and the other spilled mercurichrome all over the kitchen in an attempt to keep him from getting "affection."

Life is just one climax after another. So far my youngest son has been amenable to discipline. Except for a great increase in the demand for clothespins, and a necessity for another hundred feet or so of clothesline, he is a model child. But I'm quite sure he's only biding his time.

I'm after information.

How do these fathers of more boys than four keep their possessions neat, whole and tidy? Or do they?

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Here is a tip-off as to how long the special session will continue after the neutrality debate is finished:

Among the passengers booked on the S. S. Lurline for Honolulu at the end of October is Representative Joe Martin, astute Republican floor leader.

Other members of congress listed as planning the trip are Senators John Miller, Democrat, of Arkansas, and Ernest Gibson, Republican, of Vermont; Representatives Cassius Dowell of Iowa and August Andresen of Minnesota, Republicans; Eugene Crows of Indiana and Leo Kocialkowski of Illinois, Democrats.

Lindbergh's Broadcast.

The inside story of how Colonel Lindbergh happened to make his famous keep-out-of-war radio broadcast chiefly revolves around William R. Castle, jr., under secretary of state in the Hoover administration and an official of the Republican national committee.

Castle had known Lindbergh ever since the Colonel first flew the Atlantic, and has become even closer to him recently.

From the very start of the Polish crisis, Lindbergh had expressed to Castle his alarm at the carelessness of American public opinion which seemed to think that the United States might drift into war.

Dining with radio broadcaster Fulton Lewis one night, Lindbergh again expressed this view, and Lewis immediately suggested that he make a radio broadcast. He placed his own network, Mutual, at the flier's disposal.

Lindbergh was non-committal, and as Lewis left that evening he had little idea that the Colonel was seriously considering the matter.

Later Castle urged Lindbergh to accept the invitation, but he demurred. He said he had sought to avoid publicity, and that such a broadcast would put him right back in the limelight.

He also argued that such a broadcast would make people believe he was pro-German, and that he owed it to his children not to make it. Mr. Castle, however, argued that he owed it to the American people to urge them to keep out of war.

Several days later, Fulton Lewis was fishing in southern Maryland when a neighbor, ogle-eyed with astonishment, called him to a telephone several miles away.

Lindbergh was phoning to say that he had decided to accept the radio invitation, but would like to make the broadcast over all the radio networks. To this Lewis readily agreed.

Note — Republican senatorial circles also believe that the Lindbergh broadcast was in the nature of a trial balloon to test Lindbergh's possible entry in the senate race in New Jersey, where GOP Senator Warren Barbour faces a tought re-election fight next year.

Louisiana Nepotists.

Nepotism gravy, like gold, is where you find it. Stocky, vivacious Representative Joachin O. Fernandez of New Orleans stakes out his claims in two places, his home-town and Washington.

There is a law in Louisiana against dual office holding. This has not, however, deterred Louis A. Fernandez, brother of the congressman, from collecting concurrent salaries both as a state and a federal employe.

As an "undercover" inspector of the Louisiana board of health, Louis drew a $1,200 salary from July, 1938, through July, 1939. At the same time he was—and still is—on the federal payroll as a $1,500 clerk in the New Orleans office of the government's Mississippi Barge Line.

But it is in Washington that the Fernandez family makes its biggest nepotism splurge. A congressman's clerical allowance up until recently was $5,000 a year. Every cent of this money went into the Fernandez till, as follows:

Viola M. Fernandez, wife, office assistant $1,200
John D. Fernandez, brother, secretary 3,800
Total $5,000

Another Louisiana statesman who does a bit of dunking in the gravy bowl is Senator John H. Overton. His nepotist roll call consists of his two Washington society-bud daughters—

Ruth D., (ditto) 2,200

Roosevelt Charm.

The famed Roosevelt charm is now no myth to Senator H. Styles Bridges. Although the New Hampshire presidential aspirant is one of the most bitter New Deal haters in congress, he emerged from his neutrality conference at the White House literally glowing with Rooseveltian admiration.

"Of course I'd heard about his charm," Bridges confided to colleagues, "and I was on my guard. But you can't get away from the fact that he does have a marvelous personality. I was very much impressed. He told me that he realized we differed on many domestic matters, but he knew I would not permit partisanship to intrude in considering problems growing out of this great national emergency.

"And he also said to me, 'Senator, if you ever want any confidential information about government affairs, you just let me know personally and I'll see that it is furnished you immediately.' He certainly was very nice."

Note—Bridges started the special session as one of the leaders of the isolationist bloc, attending their secret pow-wows and taking part in planning their strategy. But early last week and before he went to the White House, he issued a statement that while he still was undecided about the administration's neutrality bill, he was dissociating himself from the embargo group.

Merry-Go-Round.

Latest addition to the famed Garment Workers' Union musical comedy hit, "Pins and Needles," is a skit entitled "The Harmony Boys" with Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina, Fritz Kuhn and Father Coughlin as the characters. The skit replaces the "Four Angels of Peace," which had Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini and Chamberlain as the stars. . . . Few are aware that under Title II of the 1917 Espionage Act, which is still in force, the president has the power to order the seizure of any ship, domestic or foreign, operating in U. S. waters, which is considered a menace to the peace of the country. . . . The National Youth administration in Indiana is building a "navy" for the State's Conservation commission, consisting of 40 big rowboats to be used for stocking lakes with fish. . . . Although one of the hardest workers in the government, SEC Chairman Jerry Frank reads on an average of two books a week. He does it by cutting down on his sleep.

NEW CHEERING SECTION MAKES DEBUT AT GAME

285 Senior High Students Led by 8 Cheerleaders to 'Pep Up' Tygers Tomorrow.

A new Senior high cheering section of 285 members and eight new cheerleaders will make its first public appearance tomorrow afternoon at the Mansfield - Sandusky football game at Stadium field.

The group will be distinguished from the rest of ths student body by large bright red and white emblems and the cheerleaders will be attired in scarlet and white uniforms.

Known as the "M. H. S. Pep Club," the cheering section was recently organized to create and uphold good sportsmanship and school spirit at all school activities, school authorities said. The group will be seated in a special section on the west side of the field adjoining the 50-yard line. The pep club emblems and the new cheerleader uniforms were purchased by the school athletic board.

speech to which Hitler previously had devoted three hours in a word-by-word study.

Hitler Calls in Staff.

The fuehrer summoned his general staff in preparation for the "war in earnest" after examining the speech, then called in the press chief to state his view of the situation to the foreign correspondents.

Dietrich charged that the British prime minister's speech showed a determination to annihilate the German people. But, he declared, the German people will be welded more closely than ever by it and "let's see who will be annihilated."

As German official opinion thus marshalled itself for the beginning of a "bloodbath" without a parallel in the world's history, first reports reached Berlin of renewed French initiative on the western front.

The French are dynamiting several Rhine river bridges, underlining the likelihood of open conflict in the near future. But it was still felt in Berlin that the possibility of a peace move by President Roosevelt will act as a brake upon the war machine and defer a wholesale outburst for several days more at least.

(Editor's note: A report was current in Amsterdam that Hitler had established headquarters on the Siegfried line. There was no confirmation in Berlin, however, of reports that he had already gone to the front.)

At the same time, an official statement was issued excoriating Chamberlain and placing responsibility for war upon his shoulders.

"The speech was an unheard of insult to Germany," this statement said. "It displayed an unbelievable impudence against the reich and its politics.

"Chamberlain has spurned Hitler's hand. It is obvious that he has no desire to understand or consider the fuehrer's responsible proposals.

"The German people know from the experience of Versailles to what destructive measures the British can go. The German people know therefore the road that must be followed to frustrate the will of their enemies."

Rome Sees Prospects For Peace Unchanged.

ROME — (AP) — Authoritative sources said today that Prime Minister Chamberlain's reply to Adolf Hitler's end-the-war proposals represented little or no progress in efforts for peace and they regarded the situation as unchanged.

There was no official reaction to Chamberlain's speech of yesterday, but Italy continued to pursue her "no initiative" policy—both in a military sense and toward any peace moves.

Premier Mussolini was confronted with the possibility of German pressure to obtain aid from Italy. Authoritative sources would not comment on the possibility of Italy's refusing such aid, whether it be economic or military, in the light of Mussolini's declarations of neutrality.

The opinion was general, however, that Italy would aid any move toward European peace if a definite basis was advanced with reasonable possibilities for success.

'End War' Hint to U. S. Hits Two Obstacles.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Adolf Hitler's indirect suggestion that President Roosevelt advise Great Britain to meet Germany in conference encountered today two immediate obstacles:

One was that no formal request has been made for American mediation or intervention in the European war.

The other was a feeling in many quarters that the United States government would want the advance assent of Great Britain and France to any such proposal, even if Germany should ask the president directly to try to bring the opposing sides together.

Previous suggestions of a similar nature have been made by the controlled press in Germany. When Roosevelt was questioned about them Tuesday, he replied that he had received no request from abroad.

Correspondents in Berlin were told Germany would unleash a "war in earnest" against Great Britain and France unless there was an indication Roosevelt would tell Prime Minister Chamberlain he must express a willingness to meet Germany in conference.

'Brain Team' Hopes to Learn Just About All College Has to Offer

They'll Go to School Six Years, Hope to Learn Four Times More.

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTA — An 11-man brain team has gone into training this semester at Oglethorpe university—training just as intensive and far longer than that of any college football squad.

In a unique educational experiment team members will stay in college six years, do two of three times as much work as an average student, and "learn at least four times as much" (they hope, they hope.)

"Boys differ as much intellectually as physically. A football coach wouldn't try to make a varsity tackle from a 115-pound runt. Yet professors lump 50-, 100- and 200-pound intellects indiscriminately. It's ridiculous."

No Midnight Oil.

Dr. Jacobs selected his team from the upper 5 or 10 per cent of recent high school graduates and is raising funds to finance them. They entered training Sept. 20. Their routine:

Arise at 7; attend class until 1:30; exercise, play or study all afternoon, then study at night until 10:45 o'clock. They may participate in extra-curricular activities except fraternities. (Proxy figures fraternity life might interfere with studies.)

Instead of 15 hours' class work a week, they take 25 to 30. Instead of 8½ months a year, they will study 11. They will study every science and art taught at the university, from shorthand and swimming to Greek and philosophy.

They will race through the principal sum of human knowledge and find the task no harder, says Dr. Jacobs, than ordinary studies to ordinary students.

Jobs Promised.

When all done they should have "half a dozen ways to make a living." There's a demand for their services already, as shown by the offer of one international business firm to find jobs for them all.

Dr. Jacobs expects the team to average 90 or better for about 100 courses. That includes Latin, Greek, French, German, Italian, Spanish, astronomy, geology, paleonthology, anthropology — just to give you an idea.

Dr. Jacobs enthuses:

"They should be able to look over the heads of the myoptic specialists and of the common herd; to see farther and more clearly than they do; to combine, as far as is humanly possible, the wisdoms of the past and present."

If all goes well, another team will be started next year.

Leader and "assistant coach" is 21-year-old Frederick Goss, whose title is "Don." A tall, thoughtful youth, he hails from Proctor, Vt., and is the only child of a stone cutter. He has had two years at Oglethorpe but starts from scratch.

No bookworm, although he came to Oglethorpe on a scholarship, Goss played varsity football, was president of his high school student council, a Y.M.C.A. leader, and a hobbyist in bird lore and photography. He swims, plays tennis and softball at Oglethorpe.

Goss hopes to obtain "a well-rounded education so I can cope with any problem in future life." Dr. Jacobs hopes he will remain as an instructor.

"That," says he, "is a problem we'll have to tackle if and when we get to it."

The Lineup

ATLANTA—Members of Oglethorpe's brain team are:

Frederick Goss, Proctor, Vt., don or student leader.

John Goldthwait, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Edward H. Kolibab, Rochester, N. Y.

Victor Nelson, Akron, Ohio.

Keith Lane, Mountainair, N. M.

Basil Stewart, Bay Harbor, Fla.

Edgar M. Vallette, Shreveport, La.

John W. Meacham, jr., Scooba, Miss.

Morey Gephard, San Antonio, Tex.

Marshall Asher, jr., Texas.

over the entire northern and eastern Baltic.

Finnish Women Arm To Repel Any Invasion.

HELSINGFORS—(INS)—With an estimated 300,000 Finns under arms as Finnish-Soviet negotiations moved into their second day at Moscow, the government increased its protective measures today against possible Russian attack.

In Helsingfors, which looked like a deserted city following evacuation of thousands of civilians to rural areas, authorities decided to dig a system of dugouts in streets and yards as soon as possible.

The London Daily Mail reported from Helsingfors that tension was increasing throughout Finland. The papers said women were lining up to buy revolvers, determined to stand beside their men to fight any Russian invaders.

It was understood that Russia, under pressure from the United States and the Scandinavian countries, "soft-pedaled" some of its demands against Finland.

U. S. Waits Result of Appeal to Russia.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt and state department officials watched closely today developments in the Finnish-Russian situation after advising Soviet Russia that they hoped nothing would disturb its peaceful relations with Finland.

The United States' diplomatic move was announced formally by the state department late yesterday—24 hours after it had been reported here and abroad that the Scandinavian countries had requested this country to urge Russia not to make immoderate demands on Finland.

After this government acted, representations also were made Russia by Sweden, Norway and Denmark. The state department emphasized, however, that this country's move was "entirely independent."

The action was not unusual for this government, inasmuch as President Roosevelt personally sought to prevent the war between Germany and Poland and, a year ago, appealed for a peaceful settlement of the Czechoslovakian crisis.

ALLIES READY FOR NAZI DRIVE

French, British Troops Mark Time, Awaiting Germany's 'Blood Bath' Threat.

German patrols involved the use of as many as 150 men at a time.

There was light counter-battery artillery action by the French to break up barrages intended to cover the patrol activity. A fog and colder weather early this morning slowed up the movements to some extent. There has been little aviation work of late despite the clear skies preceding this morning.

"These are days of comparative calm," a spokesman said. "The Germans are finishing their preparations, and we are awaiting their attack."

French counter patrols were active in the wooded areas of the Moselle valley at Saarlouis, Saarbruecken, Zweibrucken, Pirmasen, Wissembourg and Lauterbourg.

French troops in the powerful Maginot line prepared to resist a smashing attack after reports reached Paris that Chancellor Hitler has ordered war to the hilt as a result of British rejection of his peace overtures.

French military circles expected the German offensive against the Maginot line will come near the French-German-Luxembourg border intersection, while other German columns attempt to flank the Maginot line through Belgium or Holland on one end and Switzerland on the other.

With activity increasing on the Saar sector, the French, reacting stiffly to German reconnaissance patrol maneuvers, were reported to have pushed further forward into German territory at several points.

The French were reported going forward by means of the infiltration method, using a few men equipped with automatic fire weapons.

The German patrol movements have now reached the proportions of attacks by whole companies in most sectors, but so far there has been nothing in the nature of a main offensive.

Hit Chamberlain's Rebuff to Hitler.

LONDON—(AP)—The Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction headed by David Lloyd George, Britain's World war prime minister, today characterized Prime Minister Chamberlain's rebuff of Nazi peace overtures as "quite inadequate."

Action by the council, an organization of dissident liberals, came on the heels of widespread newspaper and private comment praising the firm stand against Adolf Hitler taken by Chamberlain in his house of commons speech yesterday.

Informed Britons said they believed the speech had finally convinced Germany that France and Britain were determined to fight to the bitter end. But the council of action asked the government "to state its willingness" to negotiate a peace.

BOTH PARTIES READY TO LIFT CAMPAIGN LID

Republicans and Democrats to Get 'Down to Business' on Vote Drive Next Week.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders lined up their forces today for the beginning of their campaigns next week for votes at the municipal election in November.

The two will launch their drives next week at the first of a series of ward meetings which are scheduled to take candidates into all of the city's six wards during the next three weeks.

The Republican executive committee elected two new members to complete the committee this wek but failed to set a definite dat for the campaign opener al though they tentatively agreed it would be next week.

Paul Eliot and J. W Selby, Madison township trustee, were named to the board to complete the organization of 31 members agreed upon by the central committee last year.

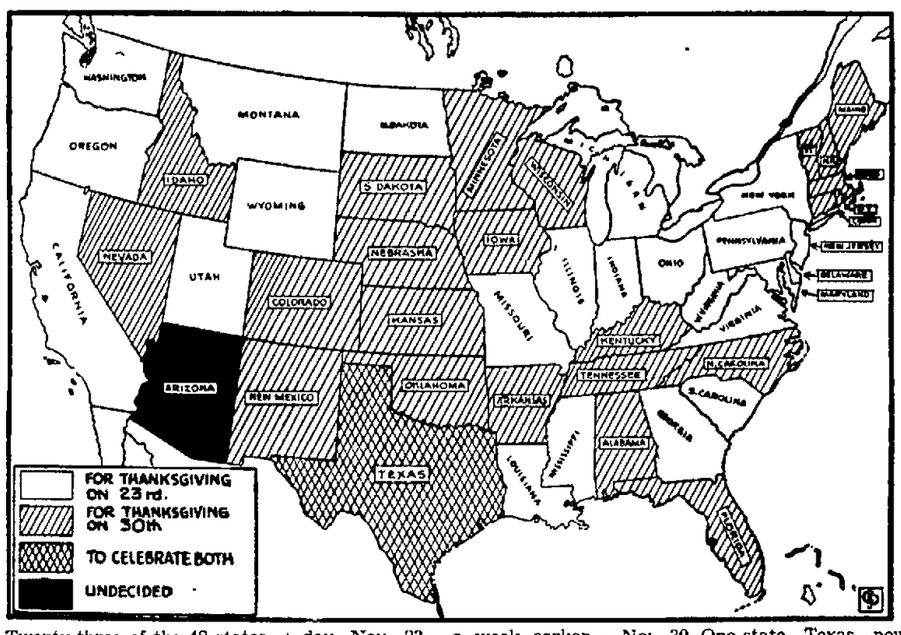
Dems Meet Tonight.

G. A Baer, Democratic campaign manager, said today that party candidates will meet at Democratic headquarters in the Walpark building tonight to draft final campaigns which will include a tentative speaking program for the next three weeks.

He said it was "quite probable" that the Democrats will open their campaign early in the week at Prospect park with a meeting conducted by the Young Democratic club.

The Democratic drive for votes at the municipal election will be headed by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, seeking his second term, and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, also up for re-election, while the Republican ticket is headed by William J. Locke, a newcomer in politics, who is party's mayoralty candidate.

Here's How States Are Divided On Thanksgiving



Twenty-three of the 48 states, as this Central Press map shows, have decided to follow President Roosevelt's suggestion and celebrate Thanksgiving day, Thursday, Nov. 23—a week earlier than has been customary. Twenty-three states will stick to the old "last Thursday in November" tradition and stage their official celebrations on Nov. 30. One state—Texas—now plans to have two official Thanksgiving days—Nov. 23 and Nov. 30. Arizona, alone, has not decided which date will be observed.

DEMS TO RALLY

BUCYRUS—A rally at the courthouse tonight will officially open the municipal campaign of Bucyrus Democrats preparatory to the November election.

A platform for the fall campaign will be discussed and candidates will be heard in informal talks The meeting was called by Chairman Carl Jacobs.

CHOLERA HITS COUNTY HOGS

Farmers Warned to Prevent Spread of Disease.

With an outbreak of hog cholera reported in western Richland county, farmers were warned today to take precautions to prevent spread of the disease.

The disease so far has been confined to the Walker's Lake road section west of Springmill and apparently is under control, but further spread of the malady is possible, Dr. Ben Henson, Mansfield veterinarian, said.

An animal afflicted with cholera will lose its appetite and have a tendency to sleep more than usual, the veterinarian said. If not treated early, an afflicted hog rarely survives the disease.

CROP INSURANCE SOUGHT BY 353

Applications for 1940 Wheat Protection Up 125 Per Cent Over 1939 Figures.

An increase of 125 per cent in the number of Richland county applications for wheat insurance for 1940 was reported today by Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the county soil conservation committee.

Taylor said a total of 353 county farmers had applied for federal insurance on their 1940 crop, an increase of 196 over the 1939 figures. The deadline for 1940 applications was Oct. 1.

The 353 policies would insure the holders of a wheat production of approximately 42,572 bushels on 3,177 acres. The premium cost will be 3,177 bushels of wheat or the equivalent in cash, an average of one bushel per acre

Insured farmers may collect for losses next summer either in wheat or cash. The policies cover loss from drought, fire, winterkill, smut, hail, Hessian fly damage and other natural causes Taylor said all but two of the losses reported this year had been adjusted and those two are in the process of adjustment.

LATE NEWS!
ON SUNDAY, TOO!

Every newspaper has certain definite, strict obligations to the community in which it is published. Chief of these is to provide its readers with THE LATEST NEWS as quickly as it is possible to give it to them.

In these troubled times, that job is not completely done when there is a Saturday-to-Monday lapse in publication days.

Mansfield has grown to a size where a good Sunday newspaper is needed—Mansfield is a "news-hungry" community, as evidenced by the six-day circulation of The News-Journal.

The news is breaking fast—the new Sunday News-Journal will bring you the latest, hot off the presses, early Sunday morning.

THE SUNDAY EDITION
THE MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL
STARTING SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29TH

Local, National, World News Right Off the Wires Delivered Early Sunday Morning. A Complete Sunday Newspaper at the Regular Price of 3c Per Copy. Now Possible For You to Have Your News-Journal Seven Days a Week For Only 21 Cents.

3¢ Per Copy

Eight Pages of Colored Comics, the Nation's Best . . . New Features . . . Pictures . . . Complete Late Sports Results. News From the Surrounding Communities. A Complete Sunday Newspaper For Only 3c.

Your Carrier Boy Will Take Your Order!

—Lightning-like "breaks" in the news, coming so fast they require intensive coverage every day.

—An ever-growing demand from readers for news protection on Sundays.

For these two reasons, The News-Journal today announces that it will establish a Sunday paper, starting October 29.

News-Journal readers have shown in more ways than one that they want a Sunday paper—one indication of that is the present six day per week circulation of The News-Journal is greater than ever obtained by any Mansfield newspaper.

The new Sunday News-Journal will provide ample news coverage on Sunday—local news, state and world news, tersely written, sharply edited.

We hope you'll like it.

We hope you'll pardon us for saying it, but we think News-Journal readers have been reading a GOOD newspaper six days a week. Now we're going to give them a Sunday newspaper, with the latest available local, national and foreign news—and we're going to do our best to make it every bit as good as the daily paper (better, if we can).

For one thing, there'll be an eight-page colored comic section, with the nation's most popular comic characters. For another thing, the cost of the new Sunday paper—(the first one will be published October 29th) will be only three cents.

Despite the fact that newspaper publishing costs are increasing daily, and the printing of a Sunday edition will bring considerable added expense, The News-Journal will, however, sell this new service at the regular daily price of 3c a copy.

And you, Mr. and Mrs. Subscriber, who have been paying 18 cents for The News-Journal six days a week can now have the paper SEVEN days a week for just 3 cents more—for 21 cents a week.

The price for the six days (Monday to Saturday, inclusive) will remain the same—18c a week. Single copies of the Sunday edition may be obtained from newsstands and newsboys at 3c a copy.

There'll be features galore—some familiar ones, now appearing in the daily paper, and some brand new ones, that you'll soon list among your favorites.

Remember—a NEWSY Sunday News-Journal, starting Sunday, October 29, for only 3 cents.

BUCYRUS JUDGE GIVES TALK AT GALION DINNER

Club Celebrates National Business and Professional Women's Week.

GALION—Judge Constance Keller of Bucyrus, was the guest speaker Thursday night at a dinner meeting of the Galion Business and Professional Woman's club which marked the club's monthly meeting and also celebrated National Business and Professional Women's Week.

The dinner was held at First Lutheran church and special guests invited for the occasion were the presidents of Galion's federated literary clubs.

An attractive centerpiece on the speaker's table was a pioneer scene, carrying out the theme of 100 years of woman's progress. This was designed by Alice Mehrling, school art teacher, who was a guest of the club.

In charge of arrangements was the publicity committee which is headed by Ruth Barrett. The business session was in charge of Aliene Arndt.

Besides the speaker, the group was entertained also by Helen Britton who sang several numbers.

GIVES TALK ON EUROPE

GALION—Europe, as it was last summer before war broke out, was described in a talk by H. L. Ricker to members of the Peace Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday evening at the parish house.

The music for the meeting was in charge of Paul Durtschi and included selections by a quartet composed of Paul Durtschi, Robert Tracht, Eugene and Richard Thayer; and Richard Durtschi played a piano number. A turtle soup supper was served at the close by Harold Stahl and his committee.

C. E. Flowers opened his home Thursday evening for the monthly business and social meeting of the Men's Bible class of the United Brethren church.

WED IN CHURCH

Evelyn Hafer and James Seton Exchange Vows Saturday.

SHELBY — Miss Evelyn Hafer will be united in marriage to James Seton of Miamisburg, O., in a ceremony at 2 p. m. Saturday at First Lutheran church.

Rev. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the church, will perform the single ring ceremony before members of the immediate families and friends. Attendants will be the bride's sister, Mrs. Levi Wentz, and the bridegroom's brother, Ben Seton, both of this city.

Miss Hafer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hafer, 91 Sharon street, graduated from the Shelby schools. She has been employed for a numbers of years at the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company here. Mr. Seton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Seton of this city, graduated from Shelby high school and later attended Ohio university at Athens. He is employed as a linotype operator on the Miamisburg News at Miamisburg.

Shelby

Members of Shelby Chapter, No. 178, Royal Arch Masons, were served a "share-the-cost" supper Thursday night at Masonic temple preceding the regular meeting of the chapter. R. V. Horner, high priest, presided at the meeting.

Dr. Russell Steele of Panama, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Steele, 8 Earl avenue, showed motion pictures of the Panama Canal zone at the meeting of the Shelby Camera club Thursday night at Central school. Pictures of Alaska were shown by Walter Sotzen.

Plans for a social hour program to be held in connection with regular meetings on Sunday night by the Epworth League cabinet at First Methodist church. A supper will be featured on the programs starting Oct. 29.

Miss Jane Hollenbaugh was elected president of the Pyxiladors club this week at her home on Marvin avenue. Other officers chosen were Miss Martha McCammon, secretary; and Miss Mary Seaman, treasurer. New members taken in at the meeting were the Misses Bernice Klinkle, Skip Faust and Mary Gove.

Mrs. Theo Thorsen and Mrs. Howard Wildman won game prizes when a party was held by members of the Anna R. Fish Delphian chapter recently at the home of Mrs. A. M. Borgess. The committee that assisted the hostess included Mrs. J. A. Ellery, Mrs. L. S. Wilsden and Mrs. Raymond Dewey.

Mrs. John Yetzer, jr., and Miss Doris Baker won score prizes when Miss Florence Cramer entertained members of her bridge club this week at her home. A surprise handkerchief shower was held for Miss Evelyn Hafer, a bride-elect of James Seton. Mrs. Ray Trout will be the hostess to the club meeting in two weeks.

Mrs. Paul Dobner of Mansfield, a recent bride, received a gift during the recent meeting of the Luncheon club at the home of Mrs. Harry Tiffany. Prizes were won by Mrs. Woodburn Armstrong and Mrs. W. N. Flasher. The club will meet with Mrs. L. L. White in two weeks.

MAP SCHEDULES

ASHLAND — Members of the Ashland county Schoolmasters' club meeting here with Virgil B. Moffett, county school superintendent Thursday afternoon discussed basketball schedules, referees and meetings for evenings in connection with county educational subjects.

Officers of the organization for this school year are H. M. Wigins of Perrysville, president; V. L. Raver of Nova, vice president; Supt. Moffett, secretary, and C. P. Lindicamp of Sullivan, treasurer.

LEGION INSTALLS

New Officers Take Their Posts at Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE—Loudon post No. 267 of the American Legion installed its new officers Tuesday evening with Dr. C. I. Kuntz of Fremont, Fifth district commander, as the installing officer.

Harry Kick is the new post commander. Other officers are Charley Liston, vice commander; H. L. Braham, adjutant; C. E. Losh, financial secretary; Fred Church, chaplain; and Herbert Merritt, sergeant-at-arms.

Dr. Kuntz was the principal speaker. A lunch was served following the ceremony.

SEEKS OFFICE

Crawford Farmer to Run for County Commissioner.

BUCYRUS—The second to announce his candidacy for county commissioner subject to the Democratic primary, May 4, 1940, Z. O. Roop, Jackson township farmer, made known his intentions of seeking office today.

Terms of two of the three commissioners will expire January, 1941.

Roop is at presenting serving as chairman of the board of trustees of Jackson township, having been a member of the board for eight years.

ATTEND RITES IN WISCONSIN

SHELBY—Word of the death of Mrs. Della Boyce Whistler of Necedah, Wis., has been received by relatives here. Mrs. Whistler died Tuesday at Mauston, Wis., after a brief illness.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter and five sons of Wisconsin; three sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mumau, Mrs. C. R. Sipe and Mrs. C. C. Laser of Shelby; six brothers, Albert and George Boyce of Shelby; Roland of Mansfield and Frank, Hugh and John of Shiloh. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Tomah, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Laser, Albert Boyce and Mrs. Mumau left Thursday to attend the services.

HEAR PROTEST

SHELBY—Discussion of the new fire protection contract with Sharon township and the Shelby fire department which was returned under protest to city officials by the township trustees, will come before the regular meeting of council Monday night.

The trustees protested the new clause in the contract that prohibited the fire department from answering rural calls for a brush, grass or muck fires not endangering buildings.

BURIAL SATURDAY

SHELBY—Funeral services for C. E. Doudna, 83, retired employe of the Shelby Building and Loan company, who died Thursday at Shelby Memorial hospital, will be at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Barkdull funeral home with Rev. J. C. Searle of the United Brethren church officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

GALION—Fire which started in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Myers on Grove avenue at 5:35 p. m. Thursday, caused considerable damage. The blaze burned through the living room floor, and the home was damaged considerably by smoke. The fire department answered a summons to the home and extinguished the blaze. Origin of the blaze was not determined.

VILLAGE WINS

Hayesville Gets Restraining Order in Drainage Suit.

ASHLAND — The village of Hayesville had won its first step in a suit filed in common pleas court here asking that a restraining order to prohibit Cecil Hawks, Hayesville resident, from "changing the topography" of his land.

The village, in the petition represented Hawks as being the owner of land on the north side of West Main street in the village, and of destroying the natural drainage, by "changing the topography" of his lots.

It is claimed that the water draining from route 30 in the village has its natural drainage on Hawks' land, and that his actions destroyed that drainage, rendering useless the ditches, gutters, etc., which the village had caused to be constructed for this drainage.

Judge H. E. Culbertson issued the restraining order which enjoins Hawks from such alleged practices, and the village posted a bond of $200.

EXAMINE PUPILS

ASHLAND — A total of 1,462 county school children were given tuberculosis skin tests in the past month, it was announced today by Mrs. Ruth Daum, county health nurse.

The tests were sponsored by the Ashland Tuberculosis association, which will hold its annual fall tuberculosis clinic Oct. 24. The testing revealed 71 positive results and 1,391 negatives.

'DEMOCRACY VS. DICTATORSHIP,' CRESTLINE LECTURE SUBJECT

CRESTLINE — "Democracy vs. Dictatorship" will be the subject of Dr. Mary Z. Johnson, professor of political science at the college of Wooster when she appears before members of the Crawford County Ministerial association at their meeting here next Monday.

The Crestline Ministerial association will be hosts for the meeting which will be held at the Presbyterian church and which opens at 10 a. m. with Rev. T. M. Patterson of the hostess church, and president of the local association in charge.

An open discussion will follow the address of the speaker scheduled for 10:20 a. m.

The business session and election of officers will be held at the afternoon session following dinner at the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. J. H. Patterson of Bucyrus is the president and Rev. T. M. Patterson is acting secretary.

CRIME TEARS ON + + + + +

By CAROLYN WELLS

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER XXIX

"But though I would no more suspect her of crime than I would suspect myself, there is no reason I should avoid the mention of her name."

"Of course not, Mr. Stone, and I ask pardon from my quick speech. I know Aunt Cornelia felt no resentment at uncle's engagement, for she loves Yvette, as we called her then."

The pause before the reply was so slight that Stone would not have noticed it had he not been on the alert for such a sign. Tom said:

"I have the same faith in Craig's complete innocence that I have in Aunt Cornelia's and my own. I admit there seems to be evidence against Craig, but is it sound evidence?"

"I think the worst thing against him is his telling about that book in which the victim was killed just as Uncle Harley was killed."

"Think again, Tom. To my mind, that is a strong point in Craig's favor. Had he just killed a man by that method, he would have cut his tongue out before he would have mentioned that book."

"What of it? He read the story, he was interested in the new or unusual method of murder. Doubtless he turned back to the descriptive pages, to check up the final disclosures of the story. You know how that is yourself."

* * *

"Yes, I do. Good for you, Mr. Stone. Truly, I didn't,—I couldn't thing Craig did such a thing, but that book made an impression on me I couldn't shake off. You have removed it and I'm glad."

"Then, of course," Stone went on, "suspicion of Craig is roused by the fact that he is now so devoted to Avis. It seems odd, that a girl, whose engagement to your uncle was announced on Monday night, should, after his tragic death, become engaged to another man in less than a week."

"I don't know what I mean, Mr. Stone, but I know Miss Verne didn't do that."

"Yes, she is. Why did she come back here, when she and Craig were on their way to the picnic?"

"She does do odd things," Stone said. "That lawyer, Kellogg, says she went to see him at his office, and Avis declares she didn't."

"That's just it," and Tom sighed deeply. "I wish I felt as sure of her integrity as I do of Craig's."

"But Craig has every faith in her—"

"Yes, Mr. Stone," Tom interrupted, "and I can't understand it. In every other matter, Craig has clear judgment, and fine, shrewd insight. I suppose she has bamboozled him out of his right mind."

"No, Tom, that isn't it. Here it is: Craig knows something about her that we don't know. Something that would straighten out all this mystery. Find out what that is, and we will know the truth."

* * *

Stone left them, to look for Sutton. The inquiry was adjourned for the day, and Sutton was glad to see the detective.

"Most exasperating case I ever was up against!" Sutton said. "I don't know which way to look!"

"For Hetty's murderer or Madison's?"

"Either or both. You know they are the same, don't you?"

"Generally are. I can think of no reason for killing poor old Hetty, except that she knew who killed Harley Madison. That would be motive enough. Anybody in the house at the time had opportunity; and the means,—have you looked about to see where the mercury could be bought?"

"Tried the drugstore in the village, but there was a new clerk there, and he said there'd been a fire in the office before he came, and he understood the sales records were all burned up."

"Know where Miss Verne is?"

"She can't be found."

"Ridden off on a broomstick, then. She's a mystery maid, if ever there was one!"

"Oh, I don't know. She's very well behaved, when she's here in person."

"I hope she doesn't come back. She messes up things generally."

"How's this for a theory? When Craig and Miss Verne came back to the house, after they'd started for the picnic, maybe she ran up to her room, and so caught Wilkins' attention, but Craig went to Hetty's room and gave her the poison."

Sutton stared. "Because he had murdered his uncle, and had learned that Hetty knew it?"

"Don't be absurd, Stone! Why would Miss Verne succeed so magnificently in her great attempt at bagging a millionaire husband, and they destroy her great good fortune by her rash act?"

"I don't know," said Stone, who had asked the question solely to find out Sutton's view on the subject of Avis. "I'm going to to New York now."

* * *

In the little car that Cornelia had placed at his disposal, Stone was driven to New York. On the way, he was annoyed to find that his ideas all referred to the Madison murder, when he knew he should be digging into the details of the second murder. But the facts of Hetty's death were so plain and positive, the only question to be answered was, who did it? In the Harley Madison case, there were innumerable queries as to how it was done, why, when, by whom, and the answer to each of these was as yet, wrapped in mystery.

And too, if he solved either, he had the solution of the other. He rejected any thought of the three Madison heirs.

To his way of thinking, a man of Craig's real worth, and fine character could not do the dead, and he was banking on his true reading of the young man's character.

Stone knew, for Craig had seen fit to tell him, that uncle and nephew had discussed the situation, and when Craig discovered that Harley Madison wanted to marry Yvette, he had waived any claim he might feel he had, in favor of the older man.

They had agreed, Craig told him, that it should be a fair field and no favor, and he stated, with a simplicity that smacked of truth, that he had never again said anything to the girl, but the merest commonplaces.

To be sure, when Harley Madison was no more, the two young people fell together as if magnet drawn, and at the present time they were quite evidently engaged, though no announcement had been made.

Avis's sudden disappearance caused Stone no great surprise. He assumed she had gone to New York, and would return in due time, or explain her further absence.

* * *

He admired the girl, but she had no glamor for him. He thought her a sweet, simple nature, different from actresses or screen stars he had met before. He could not and would not connect her with the murder, nor could any sane person do so. If she went to Silver Hill with the intent of winning the millionaire for her husband, she had brilliantly achieved her end and had certainly no reason to quash her perfect success.

As to clues, which he was still old-fashioned enough to welcome, there were few, indeed. The little hairpin was ridiculous. From it could only be deduced that the sweeping of the room had been done without the diligence that digs out corners and dusts under beds.

But there were finger prints of many readers that were named, and doubtless many others unknown to the investigators. The servants probably had access to the books in the old storeroom. But Stone had the book with him and proposed to put it to a further test, of which he had a slight hope.

He went first to the house of a friend, who was a chemist, and soon they were discussing bichloride of mercury. Doctor Jennings gave all the information asked for, and then Stone wanted to see the poison.

He opened a case and brought out some small objects which he threw on the table. They were a trifle less than three-quarters of an inch long, and were shaped like tiny coffins. The old-fashioned coffin, that is; narrow at top and bottom.

* * *

The little things seemed made of clay or stone, and were a pale grayish blue. On one side was a design of a skull and crossbones, and on the reverse, the word poison in capital letters, not, however very legible.

It chanced that Stone had never seen them before, and he fingered thm with evident delight. Jennings laughed at his childish interest, but grew serious when he listened to Stone's story.

"Why, no, I don't think anv one could go into any drug store and buy them," Jennings said.

"Not much. They keep a long time."

"Without doubt," agreed Jennings.

And then he gave Stone the information he asked about the character and action of the poison in question.

* * *

From the office of Doctor Jennings, a chemist, Stone went to see another of his expert friends. Guy Prentiss was considered by those who knew, the greatest authority on special finger-print work in the country. An old friend of Fleming Stone, he was glad to see him again.

"Can you identify finger-prints when they are not there?" Stone asked.

"You mean apparently not there?"

"Yes, I suppose that's what I mean. But I am sure they must be there, and I hope you can find them."

"On what surface?"

Prentiss riffled the pages, touching only their edges, and said:

"There are enough prints, I should say, to include most of your acquaintance. The book has been read often, and not always by people with immaculately clean fingers."

"I want to find the prints of a certain individual, and the finger-print men of the Homicide Squad, haven't reported them. I don't know much about dactyloscopy, but I know sometimes the prints are latent, and experts can dig them out, when the police are balked. What I want may require information they do not possess. Can the prints I want be latent? Or isn't that the right term?"

"Yes, that's all right. Iodin fumes seem to be indicated for the development. How long can you give me?"

"All the time that you must have, but no more. I am on a most baffling case, and if you find the prints I want, it may settle the whole question."

"But, Stone, this book shows many separate prints, so, how can I know when I get your right ones?"

"Oh, of course, I looked out for that," and the detective drew an envelope from his pocket. "I have marked the set I am interested in,—see, there it is. If by any process you can find those prints scattered through the book, but especially on these numbered pages," he handed over a list of figures, "then my quest is ended and I have found the murderer."

"Sure?"

"Sure as shooting. But my theories may be all wrong, and his finger-prints may not be in the book at all. But I want to know. When do you think you can tell me?"

"After you leave me. I'll go right at it, and I'll stick to it till I know for certain, what you ask."

"I shall probably be done with the case in a few days, and then I'll come in for a real session."

"As you say. I think I may be able to give you results tonight."

Stone went away, feeling that he had done all he could in this particular matter, and putting away all further thought of it.

* * *

He then turned his attention to his next errand,—not an altogether pleasing one. He went to the city office of the Moving Picture Corporation which filmed the plays in which Yvette Verne starred. After some delay, Stone found himself in a private office with one Grimsby, a member of the firm.

"May I ask a few questions about Yvette Verne?" Stone said.

"Of course. What can I tell you?"

"Is Miss Verne with you now?"

"What do you mean, with us? She is still under our management, but she is not working on a picture just now. She is on vacation at present."

"Where is she at the moment?"

"Have you the right to inquire?"

"I hold that I have."

"Well, I can only say that she is on her way to Hollywood. You see, she is very busy getting her divorce."

Local Lady Relieved of Pain That Kept Her Awake Nights

MRS. MILTON AU

Since the Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine Vendol was introduced in Mansfield many people have tried it, and some have returned to Central Drug Store to tell the Vendol Man how much good it has done them and give permission to publish their experience. For instance,

Mrs. Milton Au, residing on route 5, Mansfield, speaks highly of Vendol as follows: "I had been troubled a long time with constipation which caused a lot of uncomfortable days and nights for me. It often made me feel dull and sluggish and caused awful pains across my back and down through my limbs which kept me awake for hours some nights. My arms and shoulders were also full of pains at times.

"This constipated condition also made my stomach feel weak and upset so that most everything I ate would make me suffer from gas and acid risings, and the gas pressed my heart so badly that my breath felt short, and this scared me.

"This wonderful medicine Vendol gave such grand relief from constipation that I feel I have a new lease on life, and am better today than in years. Through this relief all the cramps and pains are gone so that my sleep is calm and restful and I awaken ready for my work. I feel simply grand now and give all praise to Vendol."

It is proven every day right here in Mansfield that Vendol gives astonishing relief from sour, acid, gassy stomach upsets; biliousness, dizzy spells, spots before the eyes, pains in back and legs, and other symptoms if due to, or associated with, constipation. So, if you suffer this way, come to the Central Drug Store, Corner Main and 4th Sts., and let the Vendol Man tell you all about this quick-acting Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine. All druggists sell Vendol.

U. S. Spending $15,000,000 to Motorize Armed Forces

MAPS ORDERS TO PURCHASE 8,000 TRUCKS

Light Combat, Reconnaissance Cars to Be Purchased for 'Streamlined' Units.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The war department is drafting orders for about 8,000 motor trucks and other vehicles, official sources reported today, largely to put the army's new "streamlined" divisions on wheels.

Bids already being asked of manufacturers represent prospective purchases, totaling about $15,000,000, of light combat and reconnaissance cars as well as trucks of several sizes.

Thousands of vehicles will be required to complete the equipment of the more than 70,000 officers and men of five divisions and auxiliary troops to be massed for special training this winter in the south and northwest.

Their equipment for motor transport was said officially to be only about 36 per cent complete. Specifications call for first deliveries within a few weeks, and all must be completed in the next six months.

The proposed purchases represent a move toward standardization and correcting a situation which Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, termed "absurd." Johnson reported that the army recently had in service 143 makes and models of trucks and 28 of passenger cars. Until 1933, many were 1917-18 models, left over from a World war surplus.

By a recent count, the army had about 13,000 motor vehicles of all kinds and sizes, and the national guard about 8,000.

The American army's only fully mechanized and motorized cavalry unit, the 7th brigade stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, uses more than 500 machines for its 3,000 officers and men, who number but a third of the personnel of the new divisions.

This brigade and the motorized second division in Texas have sped 30 miles an hour in long distance moves as contrasted with the two-mile-an-hour rate for masses of marching men. The second division has 1,100 vehicles of all types.

The truck and combat car orders will follow closely contracts for 329 light tanks, costing about $6,000,000, and for 65,000 semi-automatic rifles let recently as a part of the administration's rearmament efforts.

Look Out --- It's Here Again---That Friday, 13th, Jinx

The 1939 calendar handed the world a double dose of hard luck this year for today is the second Friday, the 13th. of the year. The first was in January.

The centuries-old superstition regarding Friday, the 13th, is a combination of two old beliefs. Friday has always been considered the "dark" day of the week because it was the day of Christ's crucifixion, while the most popular explanation of the ill omen attached to 13 is that there were 13 at the Last Supper, and Judas, who betrayed Christ, was the 13th.

Because the black cat has been the traditional companion of witches and evil spirits, the poor kitty is considered an omen of bad luck even today. Which may be the reason that out in Seattle, Wash., today the city pound is selling black cats—or any other color for that matter—at 13 cents a piece; and dogs are being sold for $1.13, as a part of a not-too-serious plan to "break the jinx", dispatches said.

From coast to coast 1,405 members of the exclusive Black Cat club are holding special observances today, recounting all the dire happenings that have occurred on the "hoodoo day."

Turns Against Husband In 'Mercy Murder'

Up and Down THE STREET

Deputy sheriffs wished today that they had studied their Spanish when they went to school. The officers, who censor all the mail that enters and leaves the county jail, got one written in Spanish today and they couldn't interpret it. Atty. Herbert Schettler, who remembered a little of his Spanish, came to their rescue and read enough to assure the deputies everything was all right. The letter was written by a Cuban inmate to a friend who speaks only Spanish.

Mrs. Sadie L. Beal, 55 Bulkley avenue, is one of the elderly persons in Mansfield who welcomes the Halloween season. Instead of annoying her, the children of her neighborhood play "good fairy" to her and leave mysterious baskets of fruit and vegetables on her porch. She received her first visit from the Halloween "Spirits" last night when they left a basket of pears and apples on her porch.

A window display designed to appeal to adults, but which would delight the heart of any small boy, is holding attention on Main street. It is in the window of the Charles Ritter company store and depicts a number of Mansfield retail businesses. In the center is the section of Main street, adjacent to Ritter's while around it are other stores, lighted from the inside and complete even to customers buying goods. Mechanically operated cars an trucks run around the business district carrying Mansfield goods and business. There are coal trucks, laundry and floral trucks among others, and all bearing the names of actual Mansfield concerns.

No big college ever staged a more peppy "pep rally" than the West Fifth street school students did yesterday for the school's tag football game with Prospect school. The pep meeting was arranged by Principal Glen L. Robinson and held during the general assembly period, with cheerleaders attired in the school colors leading the rah-rahs for the little players. It must have been an inspiration for the young gridders because they went out and defeated Prospect, 18 to 0.

CAFE WRECKED

Labor War Vandalism Breaks Out in Cleveland Again.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Nick Frederick, a painter, was held today while police sought his companion in what they said was an outbreak of labor war vandalism in an east side cafe.

According to members of the police vandal squad, Frederick and his companion, members of the "old guard" in the split Cleveland painters' district council, entered the cafe of Mrs. Ida Joseph and accused Mrs. Joseph of hiring non-union painters for redecoration.

The men threw mustard at newly painted woodwork, pulled meat from the refrigerator and broke china, Mrs. Joseph said. Frederick was arrested in a restaurant across the street, but his companion escaped.

tendency to interfere in the European war. He has publicly pledged his determination to keep America at peace, and we can surely accept that pledge."

Taft, son of the pre-World war president, urged that congress remain in session to act promptly "on any emergency which may arise."

He declared that nothing would be so destructive to democratic government in the United States as war, and added:

"Those who control the present government believe in a planned economy under government control. A war policy of confiscation, dominated by that philosophy, would create a completely socialized form of life, from which we might never return to the liberty and freedom heretofore regarded as characteristic of America."

Taft expressed the belief that repeal of the embargo would not result in any great demand for American munitions on the part of European belligerents. During the two and a half years before the United tSates entered the World war, he said, such goods constituted only 13 per cent of total American exports to the United Kingdom, France, Italy, Russia and Canada.

"Many of my correspondents apparently think that today we are not shipping anything of importance to Europe," he said, "but that when the embargo is repealed, the flood-gates will be opened. Of course, they are greatly mistaken.

"Shipments of all kinds are going to England and France. Not guns, it is true, but the steel and machine tools with which to make guns."

KILLED CROSSING STREET

MASSILLON —(AP)— Five-year-old Sylvia Gaines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gaines of St. Catherine, Ont., was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile as she ran across a street.

U. S. MUST CHOOSE PROSPERITY OR PEACE, SONS OF ITALY TOLD

If the United States becomes involved in the European war, it will be because its citizens are not willing to pay the price for peace and because they prefer prosperity to peace, Msgr. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, told members and guests of Prince Umberto lodge, Sons of Italy, last night at a Columbus Day observance dinner at the Southern hotel.

More than 125 persons attended the dinner, including national and state officers of the Sons of Italy and city and county officials. Dr. James Passerini was toastmaster and introduced speakers and guests.

Msgr. Goebel told the group the United States could not settle the problems of Europe, either by going into the war or staying out of it, because Europe is made up of "restless peoples and nations whose boundaries change regularly and frequently."

"Let Europe have its wars every 25 years," he said. "Their boundaries will never be settled over there. But let us not take any part in it; let us preserve our own equanimity and not be swayed either by hatred for one set of nations nor the attractions of another group. Let us be Americans and concern ourselves with the problems of America.

"But if we do permit ourselves to become involved, it will not be for national preservation or security, but because we will not pay the price of peace, because we prefer prosperity to peace."

In his address he reminded members of the Italian-American organization that Christopher Columbus was an Italian by birth, but a Spaniard by adoption, and that his unswerving loyalty to the land of his adoption only made him a better Italian.

Joseph Letizia, president of Prince Umberto lodge and one of its organizers, told of the objectives of the Sons of Italy. He pointed out the national organization was made up of Americans of Italian heritage and that its objectives included fraternal association, aid for its needy members and death benefits, and the teaching of American principals and ideals to all citizens of Italian birth or extraction.

Atty. S. M. LaPreste of Cleveland, a national officer, said members of the lodge in times of stress as well as times of peace owed their unswerving loyalty and services to the land of their adoption.

Judge Frank Celebrezze, Cleveland, a state officer, talked on Columbus, giving the circumstances that led up to his seeking a new ocean road to China and which led to the discovery of a new continent.

Other speakers included Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Judge C. H. Huston. Greetings were extended by Judge Anderson, Glenn W. Marriott, Marion Ward, Howard Sword, Guy Stewart, Ray Hout, C. L. Mitchell, Philip Wappner, Joseph Geiger and John S. Jones.

After the dinner, Michael Augustine, chairman of the affair, invited the guests to attend the Columbus Day dance which followed at the Eagles hall.

'NOT ACCIDENT'

Prosecutor Sticks to Violence Theory in Ashland Death.

ASHLAND—Prosecuting Attorney A. Ross Siverling said today that he was convinced that the death of Lewis E. Sprang, 58, who was found dead in his blood-stained home in Loudonville Tuesday, was not an accident.

Siverling said Sheriff Dale Hammond was continuing the investigation and the prosecutor's office would give all possible aid.

Hammond was in Cleveland today but his office refused to say whether or not the trip had any connection with the Sprang case. Hammond yesterday said he "was inclined to think Sprang's death was an accident."

Sprang, a bachelor who lived alone, was found dead in the living room of his home, in a pool of blood with a deep wound in the back of the head.

WIFE DECLARES MATE MUST BE SENT TO PRISON

'He Killed My Baby,' Mother Sobs; Father Points to Long Suffering of Son, 13.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—A care-worn mother shouted bitter words of unforgiveness today for her husband, 38-year-old Louis Repouille who chloroformed their imbecilic son, a 13-year-old mute, blind and paralyzed boy who always acted "like dead" to the father.

"I feel bitter," sobbed Mrs. Repouille, a mother of four younger children. "He killed my baby. I'd like to see him punished for what he has done. Let him go to jail for a while. I'd take him back for the sake of the other children. I might forget what he did, but I'll never forgive him."

Tells of 'Torture.'

Tortured by the thought that the boy, who had been a financial and emotional burden since birth, never would recover, Repouille, a $25 a week elevator operator, ended little Raymond's suffering while Mrs. Repouille and the other children were absent from home yesterday.

He had been contemplating the "mercy" killing for some time and because Mrs. Repouille was aware of his intentions, she had guarded the boy she "loved since the day he was born" almost constantly. Yesterday she went shopping and Repouille, now charged with murder, carried out his plan.

"My husband did this to punish me," said the hysterical mother. "He was angry with me because I used to drink a glass of beer every night. For twe weeks he has been threatening he had chloroform in the house and would use it on the boy."

Recalling the love and devotion she heaped upon her imbecilic son, the grieving mother added:

"I used to have hopes that some day he would be normal. Brother was no good to anybody, but he didn't bother anybody either. He was my baby and I wanted him."

"He couldn't walk, he couldn't talk," mumbled Repouille as he described the killing. "I spent $500—all the money I had—on an operation, but that didn't do any good. Specialists charged me $25 a visit and told me that there was no hope."

Repouille's act paralleled that of Louis Greenfield, a Bronx milliner who, tortured by the knowledge that his 17-year-old imbecilic son never would get well, chloroformed the boy last January. Later Greenfield was acquitted on a manslaughter charge.

DIES AT AGE 37

Miss Eleanor Upson Had Been Ill Several Years.

Miss Eleanor Margaret Upson, 37, member of a widely known Mansfield family, died this morning at General hospital. She had been in ill health for several years and had been removed to General hospital Tuesday morning.

Miss Upson was the daughter of the late J. E. and Mrs. Cora Upson, 312 Park avenue west. She was born in this city, Feb. 15, 1902, and graduated from Senior high school. After graduation she attended Dwight School for Girls at Englewood, N. J., and later entered Vassar college where she was graduated. She had traveled extensively abroad with her mother and sister.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home, with Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. The body will be placed in a mausoleum at Mansfield cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

If Unions Claim Right To Private Courts, They Have a Responsibility

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Labor unions long have been suspicious of the public courts, and in handling their internal disputes and scraps between unions over questions of jurisdiction and dues they prefer to roll their own decisions.

The stated purpose of this policy is legitimate. It is intended to guard against public airing of routine family jams and reduce the risks of litigation initiated by spies for strictly disruptive purposes.

* * *

Nevertheless, cases do arise in which the public also has an interest, such as the recent row between the Actors' union and the stagehands and the old, bitter fight between the brewery workers and the teamsters for jurisdiction over the men who drive the beer trucks.

The theatrical fight began in a very intimate family spat in one branch of the Actors' union. There was a question whether some union money had been misapplied. There was no question of theft, but the union worked itself into a great lather anyway, and, while the actors were fighting among themselves, the stagehands moved in and tried to take them over.

* * *

At this, some of the actors made accusations against officials or representatives of the stagehands, which involved offenses that were not the private business of any private organization. They were public business, and the actors, as citizens, had a duty to present to the public courts any evidence in their possession.

But, then, abruptly, the whole affair was settled within the union circle, and the actors quietly forgot their high-minded grievances against the individuals whom they had recently been denouncing.

The settlement, however, completely ignored the merits of the original fuss about the money. That never was settled. It also ignored the truth or error of the allegations against the representatives of the stagehands.

The public interest was further involved in the threat to close up the entire amusement industry, movies and all.

* * *

But for an opportune and evasive settlement, the actors and the hands could have dragged on a complete strike against each other for months or a year, and any appeal to the public courts would have been regarded as disloyalty or hostility to unionism. This even though the union courts ducked the issue.

The teamsters have declared embargoes closing whole states to certain kinds of beer and to beer manufactured in certain areas, because the brewery workers have refused to give up their teamsters.

The teamsters have interfered with interstate commerce in a legitimate commodity, and the embargoed brewer, observing every letter of the many laws governing his industry, is up against a super-government whose own courts either refuse to make decisions or can't make their decisions stick. The public government, afraid to offend any powerful union, does nothing for him, although the brewer, as a citizen and taxpayer, plainly deserves protection.

* * *

If unions claim the right to maintain their private courts to decide cases of discipline and jurisdiction, they also assume a responsibility to face issues and enforce their decisions.

In addition, it is a fact that the individual member of a union, or a non-member, whose legitimate right to work depends on his possession of a card, must reserve his right to appeal to the public courts. If he doesn't, he waives a very important right of citizenship and becomes, so to speak, a citizen of his union.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Items gastronomic: The key to Robert Taylor's heart is watermelon pickles—but B. Stanwyck must have found out long ago.

Bela Lugosi's most famous role is "Dracula," a sweet character who thrived on human blood. Bela has a favorite wine. It's bikaver—or, translated from the Hungarian, "blood of the bull."

* * *

Claudette Colbert goes yum-yum over snails—the fancy-French kind—and Marlene Dietrich's appetite for broiled tripe is a marvel after some of the tripe (unbroiled) she used to star in.

That penny a day—Deanna Durbin still collects from Producer Joe Pasternak and Director Henry Koster still goes, when it mounts up to a nickel, for candy bars—and she a young woman in the throes of "First Love!"

Eddie Albert, who used to be a soda fountain genius, still goes for soda fountain messes. (One you won't find at a soda fountain is Zorina's pet dessert: macaroons topped by vanilla ice cream, topped by a syrup made of a jigger of cherry brandy, a jigger of kirschwasser, a jigger of cognac, heated gently. YUM!)

Bette Davis' duty: Boston brown bread and Boston baked beans, as whipped up by Ma Davis at least once a week, and most always for comp'ny dinner.

* * *

Frank McHugh is a rabbit. Perpetually on a diet, he makes a virtue of carrots, lettuce, tomatoes. (Wonder, by the way, how Shirley Temple feels about her spinach, by now?)

Pat O'Brien, who looks like the corned-beef-and-cabbage type, is the corned-beef-and-cabbage type. (And had nothing to do with that Pat O'Brien Spinach Ring recipe he got stuck with once.)

SAMUEL FISHER STRICKEN AT 76

Native of New Washington Dies After 3-Week Illness.

NEW WASHINGTON — Samuel Fisher, 76, a farmer, died this morning at his home east of here after a three-week illness. He was a native of this vicinity and had lived here all of his life.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Schwab Fisher; four children, Dr. Lester Fisher of Bucyrus, Ralph Fisher of Shelby, Mrs. Anna Barber of Mansfield, and Walter at home; and five brothers and sister, John Fisher, Mansfield; Mrs. Sarah Aschbacher, Shelby; Frank Fisher, Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Alice Clark, Ashtabula, and Mrs. Mathilda Rumion, New Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at St. John's Lutheran church of which he was a member. Rev. John Doescher will officiate and burial will be in Good Will cemetery, Auburn township.

CONVICTED OF FRAUD

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Five members and the secretary of the Cleveland Plastering Contractors' association were convicted today of defrauding the United States government by collusive bidding on school repair contracts financed by federal funds.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 14

A lively and pleasant state of affairs is read from this day's astral operations. However, there are no great promises of outstanding achievements or lucrative returns for efforts made. In business and literary matters there are routine activities, but all affairs are placed in jeopardy by a predisposition to over-excitement, impetuosity, violent or quarrelsome indulgences. A faculty for being over-exacting and critical also militates against success.

Those whose birthday it is face a lively and interesting year, but not one of outstanding accomplishment. While business and general affairs have possibilities, a tendency to rash, impulsive and quarrelsome behavior may prove a defeating factor. Also, a hypercritical and exacting nature may militate against happiness and success in life, unless taken in hand early.

A child born on this day may be well-endowed with versatility, energy and creative talents, but an impetuous, excitable, tumultuous tendency may prove its frustration with a general want of understanding.

Mrs. Stella Keller and her sister, Mrs. Alice Harman, both of Petersburg, W. Va., are visiting Mrs. Keller's daughter, Mrs. Clarence B. Clark, 56 East Third street.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

As Gus gave us the message, Harry Underwood looked quickly out of the rear window and then spoke to the chauffeur.

"The street's empty just now," he said. "Can you back down to our number again? It's less than a block, you know."

"Sure thing," the man replied, and with Gus clinging to the side of the car, we backed down to the front of my father's hideaway.

"Gus can take you in and bring you out again," Lillian said hesitantly. "if you'd rather talk to Dicky by yourself."

"I won't stir a step unless you both come with me," I said, and meant it.

"We'll be with you then, of course," Lillian said promptly, and in another minute we were inside the rooms we just had left.

"Harry and I will just go into the bedroom and close the door," Lillian said tactfully as I rushed to the dangling telephone. "If you want us, just sing out, and we'll be with you."

"Thank you," I told them over my shoulder and then I was speaking over the telephone:

"Dicky! Oh! where are you, dear? I'm so sorry I've missed you. I should have 'phoned you—"

"Never mind all that now." His voice was not irritated, but tense, desperate, and I felt myself stiffen as at an expected blow. "Now that you're here, tell me something: Can you give me shelter at the hotel tonight, and part of tomorrow, or, perhaps, at that place where you are?"

Not at Apartment.

I thought swiftly. We could not have him at the apartment hideaway, from which we planned to go in disguise to the rendezvous at the restaurant. It would have to be the hotel, but there were difficulties there also. What instructions had Philip Veritzen left about our suite? But I would have to cut that Gordian knot later. Just now, I must meet Dicky's need.

"I am sure the hotel will be all right," I said. "Down here is impossible. In the first place, there is no room, and in the second, Harry, Lillian and I have been sent here by some one you know to attend to something left undone."

"Does that mean," Dicky's voice was suddenly hoarse, "that you cannot meet me at the hotel and stay there tonight? I—I need you—terribly."

There was something in his voice which pulled at me, but I knew I must not forget his peril, and that I must not hamper my opportunity to save him from it."

Asks Their Advice.

"Dicky wants to go to the hotel, or here, tonight—for shelter—he said, and he wants me to meet him there—or here. He says he needs me terribly."

"Not here." Lillian spoke with quick decision.

"That's what I told him," I said. "But I'm going to telephone the hotel right away."

"Here's hoping old Phil hasn't spiked any guns there," Lillian said fervently.

"He couldn't if I told the clerk I was coming back and meeting my husband there. Will it be possible for me to go over to the hotel tonight after we come back here?"

"I don't see why not," Lillian said promptly. "We can smuggle you out of here in your proper person about—well, say nine o'clock. Tell Dicky that, for if anything unforeseen comes up that you can't go, it will involve him, and he will not have reached the hotel. But you don't need to tell him that. Just say that you can get away about nine."

"Thank you so much," I said fervently, and sped back to the telephone.

"I can go to the hotel tonight," I said, and Dicky's voice, tense and raucous, uttered a fervent "thank God!"

"But," I went on, "I must telephone the hotel first to make sure they understand about your coming. I haven't the slightest idea what fool instructions Philip Veritzen may have given the manager. Where are you, so I can call you back?"

"I can't tell you over the telephone, and you mustn't call me back. I'll get out of here and call you from another telephone. When?"

"In five minutes," I said promptly.

"I'll try to call you in five, but it might be longer. Will you wait for me?"

"Of course, you stupid darling," I said affectionately. "Good-bye."

"Good-bye, sweet," he said, and when the receiver clicked, I hung up my own telephone. A few seconds later I rang the Lansfield hotel.

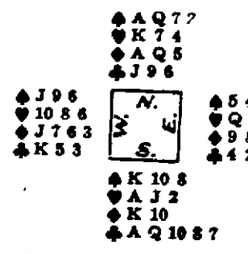
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE CHARM OF THE GAME

MUCH OF THE joy in bridge comes from its uncertainty. No matter how ably you and your partner may perform, in bidding or play, the fate of a lot of hands will depend upon factors which are completely beyond your control. Many a soundly bid contract would be beaten if your opponents swapped hands, and many an unsound one would be made if the same thing were done.



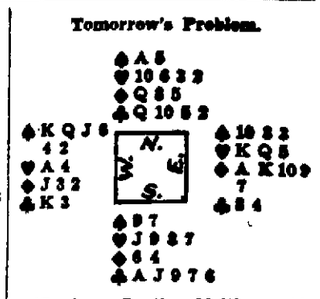
(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable).

This deal got bid to either 6-No Trumps or 7-No Trumps at all tables of a duplicate game. Some declarers took all the tricks and others lost one trick. It resulted in a whole series of post-mortems, which finally brought out the fact that during one of them the East-West hands got switched. When the club K was in the East a grand slam was easy, and when it was not it was impossible.

Many kinds of bidding occurred on it, one of the most popular sequences being: North 1-Spade, South 3-Clubs, North 3-No Trumps, South 4-No Trumps (Blackwood), North 5-Hearts, South 5-No Trumps, North 6-Diamonds and South 7-No Trumps.

LUCAS — The Lucas Boosters club will sponsor a dance at the I. O. O. F. hall in Lucas tomorrow evening, it was announced today.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

East having rebid diamonds, why should South not double 6-Spades, even though the bidding sounded very weak?

VARIED ACTIVITIES CONDUCTED THURSDAY

St. Paul Organization Pledges Contribution to Hospice, Packs Box; Other Groups Continue Regular Work.

MEMBERS of the Mary Markley society of the St. Paul Lutheran church were the guests of Miss Helen Boyer, 348 Newman street, yesterday when Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert presented the topic, "God's Family In Conference." She was assisted by the Misses Romilda Stahl, Louise Seybold, Lillian Damlos, Mrs. Joseph Morganstern, Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon and Mrs. Paul Thatcher.

A $5 contribution was pledged to Miss Elvira M. Strunk in China to assist in the building of a Lutheran hospice for girls there. Mrs. Charles Huck and Mrs. Morganstern were appointed delegates to the central conference missionary convention to be held in Zanesville Oct. 24 and 25 when Miss Damlos conducted the session. Gifts were packed by the members to send in a box to the Rocky Boy Indian mission.

Miss Ruth Clark, Shiloh, was a guest. Games were played and prizes were won by Miss Seybold and Mrs. Sturgeon. A two-course luncheon was served buffet style at a long table decorated with Halloween colors. The next meeting will be held Nov. 9 at the home of Miss Elizabeth Bollman, 126 Newman street, with—Miss Stahl giving the program.

Members of the Third division were in charge when a 1 o'clock luncheon was served in the church parlors yesterday to 43 members of the St. Matthew's Women's guild. Flowers decorated the long tables at which the guests were seated. Mrs. William Proschel led the devotions and Mrs. Robert K. Miller presided at the session.

A vocal solo was given by Mrs. C. F. Sheriff, and Mrs. Charles Woods played a piano number, after which Miss Margaret West, Y. W. C. A. secretary, spoke on her work.

"Reformation" was the theme of the program yesterday afternoon during a meeting of St. Luke's guild at the church parlors. There were 31 members and guests present for the session, which was in charge of Mrs. Neil Remy.

Mrs. Milton Doolittle read the devotions, and Rev. H. S. Garnes gave a short talk. Mrs. Russell Smith of Crestline sang a group of solos relating to the "Reformation" theme. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frederick Cahall. Mrs. John Finefrock then presented a paper entitled "Labor Laws Concerning Women and Children." Bouquets of fall flowers decorated the tables, when supper was served at the close of the afternoon.

The guild members are planning to have guest meeting and covered-dish dinner in December. The next regular meeting will be held at the church on Nov. 9.

* * *

Mrs. Elizabeth Maglott, South Foster street, was hostess to 20 members and two guests, Mrs. Henry Fiedler and Miss Marjorie Leonard, of the Loyal Daughters class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. During the business meeting plans were made to have a chicken dinner at the church Oct. 31.

Contest winners were Miss Frieda Boebel, Mrs. Rose Crider, Mrs. Margaret Hunt, and Mrs. Malvina Damlos. The next meeting will be Nov. 9 with Miss Elda Maglott, State street. Luncheon was served last night, and Halloween appointments were used for decorations.

Tour In Wooster Arranged Oct. 18 For Garden Clubs

A woman from the Mansfield area, Mrs. George M. Bear, Ashland, was named recording secretary of the Garden Club of Ohio at the annual meeting which was held late last month in Akron, a communication received here today announced. Mrs. Florence McKelvey Clegg, Youngstown, is president, and other officers are from numerous cities throughout the state.

The club will meet Oct. 18 at Babcock Hall in Wooster for a tour of the gardens of Mrs. J. B. Taylor and Mrs. Edmond Secrest and a drive through the grounds of Mrs. Arthur Miller's home, and the campus of Wooster college.

A visit to the Ohio Experimental station and a luncheon at the parlors of the First Presbyterian church will also be featured. Mrs. Frederick Hanna, 231 West University street, Wooster, is accepting registrations. A talk will be given by Edmond Secrest, director of the station, and director of Mohican park at Loudonville, after which the delegates and visitors will be taken on a tour of the park.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

By MARIANNE

WITHIN the year many college students will learn the secrets that lie behind the Greek letter symbols of campus sororities and fraternities . . . from pledge duties and solemn ritualistic rites to chapter meetings, teas and dances. . . . And judging from the number of Mansfield collegians who have just been pledged, many of these various Greek letter groups really have some worthwhile new members.

Marianne

* * *

Although they'll probably have to do everything from tote laundry cases for tired active members to waiting table and cleaning the chapter house before their pledgeship is over, Evadine Selby and Mary Smith are mighty proud of their new Chi Omega pledge pins. . . . They are both students at Wittenberg college in Springfield now—Evadine, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Selby, is a freshman, while Mary is a member of the sophomore class. . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith and a busy member of the Wittenberg Women's league, Y. W. C. A. and the Lutheran Student association.

* * *

Still farther down the state are Ellen Cramer and Geraldine Frank—both freshmen at Miami university in Oxford. . . . Ellen (whose parents are Atty. and Mrs. Stuart H. Cramer) has been pledged to Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. . . . Geraldine is a pledge of Sigma Kappa.—Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frank, her brothers, Jack and Junior, and Bill Link are all driving down to the university this week-end for a visit.

* * *

SPEAKING of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, it was Mary Black's choice at the University of Michigan, where she is a freshman this semester. . . . Another Mansfield freshman at the Ann Arbor school is Marjorie Mahon, a new pledge of Pi Beta Phi sorority. . . . Mary is the daughter of Mrs. Grace L. Black, and Marjorie's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon.

* * *

Oh, but that's not all the collegiate news today. . . . Dick Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw, has been elected pledge president of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at DePauw university, where he is a freshman and member of the Intrafraternity council. . . . Bill Hollingshead (his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Hollingshead, moved to Akron from Mansfield recently) is another new member of that fraternity at Greencastle, Ind. . . . Kathryn Fighter, who transferred this year to DePauw as a sophomore from Oberlin college, has just been pledged to Delta Delta Delta sorority—she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Fighter.

* * *

BY MAIL AND TELEPHONE: Dr. and Mrs J. M. Garber are enjoying the scenic Atlantic seaboard these days, as they're vacationing in Atlantic City, N. J. . . . Another Mansfielder, visiting in the east now, is Mrs. Carl Willsey, who's in New York City. . . . Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Lavender have just returned home following a ten-day motor trip through the Smoky mountains.

* * *

SOME other folks who have just come back from their vacation are Mrs. L. A. Palmer and Mrs. I. M. Palmer—they were in Philadelphia, Pa., visiting with Mrs. L. A. Palmer's daughter, Mrs. J. H. Flager (formerly Helen Palmer of this city). . . . While in the east, the Mansfield women went to Penn State university, where they visited Mrs. Flager's son, Joseph, who's a senior at the school. . . .They also visited Mrs. I. M. Palmer's son, E. R. Palmer, in New York City and took in the world's fair. . . . Other side trips included Valley Forge and Bryn Mawr. . . . But the thing which impressed the Mansfielders most about the entire trip was the beauty of the scenery in the Blue Ridge mountains.

* * *

In spite of the fact that David Droz (son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Droz) was 20 years old in July, he seems to have both honors and responsibilities beyond those of the average individual at his age. . . . David was graduated from Parks college (a school of aeronautical engineering) in East St. Louis, Ill., last month, and went from there to the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, where he's an instructor of meteorology, radio and flying.

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: Received word just this morning that Charles Ireland has been elected from the freshman class of Wooster college to sing with the Men's Glee club there. . . . He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Ireland.

Future Events Planned By Greek-Letter Club

Miss Vivian Emmer was the guest at a meeting of Sigma Kappa Gamma yesterday evening at the home of Miss Vivian Walter, 310 Purdy street. During the business session, plans were formulated for a rummage sale to be held on Oct. 28, and for a theater party in the near future.

It was announced last evening that informal initiation for new pledges will be an event of Nov. 30, followed by formal initiation sometime in December. At the close of the meeting a buffet luncheon was served. Miss Charlotte Brightbill has invited the group to her home, 248 South Main street, for the meeting of Oct. 26.

Re-Elect Officers of Chautauqua Circle

All the officers of the Chautauqua were re-elected yeesterday when Mrs. Marie Lomax, Reba avenue, entertained with a covered-dish luncheon at her home. The 1 o'clock luncheon was served at a long table decorated with Fall flowers.

The officers are Mrs. A. H. Weikert, president; Mrs. A. O. Widders, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Campbell, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. J. McHugh, reporter, and Mrs. Lomax, floral chairman. Mrs. Jack Richey was a guest.

A quilt for a family was started, and Mrs. E. R. Hart, Arthur avenue, was named as the Nov. 9 hostess.

Mrs. Alexander Has Party For Miss Elsass

Mrs. Robert Alexander was hostess to 11 last night at the Towne House when a spinster dinner was served in honor of Miss Mary Lou Elsass who will become the bride of James Ford at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday afternoon. The table was centered with white mums and pink carnations, and decorations were lolipops to carry out the "kid party" theme.

After dinner the guests went to Mrs. Alexander's home, 222 Fairlawn avenue, to make a bride's book, and spend a social time.

Ragpickers Ball Set By University Group

They've done it again. We mean the University club members. An announcement for the coming dance cleverly illustrated by Karl Horn was received today, and heading the letters with the line "Wear Anything You Choose" the officers disclosed arrangements for a Ragpicker's Ball to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

R. W. Stevens is general chairman for the affair which lasts from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. Oct. 21. Henry Cicone and his Neil House, Columbus, band will provide syncopation for the "strictly informal" function. In addition to the ballroom the Chinese room will be reserved for club members also.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Brinkerhoff, Bowman P. T. A. In Session; Name Committees

ALMOST every day word comes of the program starting at another school P. T. A. There are only 13 organizations in Mansfield so soon we will have reports of the activities of all of them. Last night Brinkerhoff association launched the season with 120 members present out of the 160 reported by the membership committee.

The program included group singing led by A. LeMoine Derr, two vocal solos by James Hart accompanied by Miss Louise Krause, and a Halloween story by Miss Hazel Manner. Mrs. Fred H. Troll was program chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Bart Haley and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stanton served on the hospitality committee and served refreshments.

Committee chairmen named last night are Harold Dysart, president, were Mrs. D. C. Cole, adult education; Robert Black, budget; W. N. Fenn, Father's club; Mrs. D. G. Ogden, hospitality; W. J. Bishop, lawn fete; Mrs. Herman Brunk, magazine; Mrs. H. F. Leppert, membership; Harvey Bailey, publicity, and C. C. Secrist, safety.

Seventeen garden club certificates were awarded last night and Martha Kinkle and Billy Ryan were given prizes. Delegates to the city P. T. A. council named last night are Charles Young, Mrs. Mary Weller and Mr. Ogden. Harold Arlin spoke on the three-mill levy.

At the Bowman school auditorium the P. T. A. met last night with J. R. Stevenson in charge. Alvin Fankhauser, member of the board of education, spoke on the three-mill levy, and Miss Ruth Dukes was elected secretary of the association.

Colored films of Mansfield and Florida flower gardens were shown by John Kullman. Group singing was led by Raymond Dent, and Mrs. Dan Edwards was chairman of the hospitality committee. The next meeting will be Dec. 12 at the school with "This Is the Way Jack Plays" as the theme of the meeting, a Christmas program and report of the state convention will also be featured.

POSTPONE HIKE.

The Business and Professional Women's club hike which was scheduled for Oct. 15 has been postponed to Oct. 22, it was announced today. The group will meet at 2:30 p. m. at the courthouse. Dorotha Garver, Rachel Secrist and Minnie Loudon are in charge.

Mansfield Club Women Will Go To Fremont Meet

A number of Mansfield women who belong to federated clubs are planning to attend the Middle North district convention which will be held at Fremont Oct. 19 and 20, it was announced today. Those scheduled to attend are Mrs. Sidney Palmer, Mrs. Joseph Johnston, Mrs. James Bailey, Mrs. Elmer Post, Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, Mrs. William Hauserman and Mrs. A. H. Moellenkamp.

The conference will be held at the Presbyterian church in Fremont beginning at 9 a. m. Thursday. Club topics for both senior and junior groups will be discussed Thursday morning, and a luncheon will be followed by an address by the state president, Mrs. Chauncey L. Newcomer. In the evening a banquet will be served.

Numerous programs and conferences for various groups and departments are scheduled for the remainder of the convention. Delegates and visitors will be entertained in the homes of Fremont women, it was announced, and luncheons, breakfasts and dinners will be served at the sessions.

THIS and That: Dorothy Lamour has gone back to sarong-ing in "Typhoon" after having finished "Disputed Passage," with Akim Tamiroff and John Howard. . . . Frank Lloyd goes from the saga of rails in "Wells Fargo" to that of steam boats in "Rulers of the Sea." It is a story of the last days of sail boats and the first days of steam. . . . Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard, John Beal and Douglas Montgomery in the old thriller "The Cat and the Canary," has been released. . . . Sinclair Lewis' novel "Mantrap" will be filmed as "Untamed" with Ray Milland and Patricia Morrison. . . . One of the important films ready for the market is "The Light That Failed" in which Ronald Colman plays the Kipling hero, with Walter Huston playing the second lead.

America's Problem.

"Dust Be My Destiny" is the interest-holding title of the new John Garfield-Priscilla Lane film which opens at the Madison tomorrow. Based on the novel by Jerome Odlum, it deals with the great American problem today, that of the migratory workers who drift from place to place, battling for a livelihood and the right to some sort of happiness. This particular story is of a boy and a girl who never had a break and who turn instinctly to each other, determined that if they must battle, it will be together.

* * *

Old Favorites Return.

Out of the limbo of moviedom come old favorites to take part in a story of the industry, "Hollywood Cavalcade," which the Ohio presents tomorrow and the first of the week. Among the old timers are Buster Keaton, Chester Conklin, Ben Turpin, the Keystone Kops (Eddie Collins, Hank Mann, Heine Conklin and James Finleyson) and even Rin-Tin-Tin, jr. The picture moves from the days of Sennett Bathing Beauties and custard pies up to the launching of the first talking pictures. Alice Faye and Don Ameche head a cast which includes Stuart Erwin, Alan Curtis and J. Edward Bromberg

* * *

Full Bill At Park.

The Park bill is a lengthy one this last half of the week, for besides the two features there is a film of the recent Pastor-Louis fight, and a serial "The Spider's Webb," which is designed especially to appeal to children. The regular features are Lee Tracy as a smooth criminal attorney in "The Spellbinder," and "Hearts In Bondage," a romantic drama of the Civil war days with James Dunn, Mae Clark, David Manners and Charlotte Henry.

* * *

Cattle Rustlers Again.

The Three Mesquiteers are caught in a Texas dust storm and during the time that they are taking refuge in a hut some one rustles one of their herd, and they set out to find the cattle thief. The trail opens up a series of unjust acts that have impoverished cattle men in the district. John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Raymond Hatton are the new Mesquiteers. "Wyoming Law" is a Ritz attraction today and tomorrow with "The Sun Never Sets," a drama of the English army tradition, on the same bill.

Goes To Westerns.

Rochelle Hudson, the Oklahoma girl whose movie career was sponsored by the late Will Rogers, and who has had difficult sledding since his death, plays the leading feminine role in "Konga, The Wild Stallion," a Majestic attraction. She and Richard Fiske are the sweethearts whose romance is wrecked by a range feud. Fred Stone is seen as a wise old horseman and the only man who can master Konga. Marie Wilson and Johnnie Davis in "Sweetstakes Winner" is also shown.

You'll always ask for Premiums if you make this simple test

NOTICE THE COLOR—Isn't the rich golden tint of a Premium Cracker appetizing? Only a perfectly baked cracker could be so tempting.

TASTE IT—Mm—it has a real wholesome, home-made goodness. Premiums are made with fine ingredients, in clean, sanitary bakeries—topped with a special kind of salt. No wonder Premiums have so much more flavor than ordinary crackers. Stock up with Premiums for the week-end. Serve them with every meal, and with in-between snacks. Your dealer has Premiums—fresh!

SUGGESTION OF THE WEEK

For a Livelier Life!

Make Breakfast Gay as a Game!

When the family comes to the breakfast table, and finds something wonderfully new and different . . . when little crisp biscuits of shredded whole wheat no bigger than the bowl of your spoon come tumbling out of a jolly CUBS package into your cereal dish . . . breakfast is more fun than a circus! CUBS are as crunchy as a National Biscuit Company cookie . . . a snappy and good tasting too. And no wonder. It is National Biscuit Company that made them! CUBS are wholesome whole wheat bringing you the 7 vital food elements listed in the panel on the right. So, when eaten regularly, they help you in 7 separate ways. Why not order CUBS for the family right now!

1. Proteins—to help develop muscle and other tissue.
2. Carbohydrates—contribute to energy.
3. Iron—an essential element of the blood stream.
4. Copper—enables system to use food iron effectively.
5. Phosphorus—essential to bone and tooth development.
6. Roughage—helps "regularity."
7. Vitamin B—stimulates faulty appetite and digestion.
